Veterans to be honored on Memorial Day

The VFW Post, the Antioch American Legion, the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts will be present at Hillside Cemetery to pay tribute to the fallen servicemen of all wars. The services will start at 11 a.m. Monday.

After a brief graveside prayer, there will be a six-gun salute. As the haunting last strains of "Taps" float over the hills of Antioch, the VFW Memorial Day services will be concluded. Antioch residents are invited to come out to the ceremony to honor veterans.

Memorial Day is more than a day off to celebrate the beginning of summer. Stop by Hillside Cemetery, on the corner of Routes 173 and 59, to witness this beautiful and moving ceremony.

Locally, the Lake Villa VFW Post 4308 will be sponsoring a Memorial Day Parade scheduled See VFW page A10

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Village Board has instructed Public Safety Director Lee Shannon to make business owners "aware" of the village fireworks ordinance. The ordinance, which is more stringent than state requirements, affects businesses within the village limits as well as those up to one-half mile outside the village limits.

The fireworks issue came up after a request last week by Randy Edwards, of Bucco's Gameland, to sell fireworks from either a tent or his business. Edwards had told the board that he would be selling the same items other stores had carried last year.

"We will not sell anything explosive," Edwards told the board last week. "You can go into White Hen and buy these items."

The village staff surveyed area retailers to find out if they had been selling any of the devices in question. Only two responded affirmatively. "We did a survey and only Osco and Bernies were selling these items," Shineflug had told the board.

The question then became whether or not the 4th of July novelties are legal under the ordinance. Shannon brought an entire table-full of "fireworks" which included items he had purchased at local stores, others Edwards wanted to sell, and devices Shannon had confiscated.

"On a professional level, I would like to see all of it banned," said Shannon. "However, personally, I like to see fireworks just like anyone else."

The village prohibits the sale of fireworks, firecrackers, torpedoes, roman candles, skyrockets, or any other article intended for a pyrotechnic display. Using the state definition of fireworks, the board then had to figure out which devices on the table were permitted. In addition, the board received a working definition of a pyrotechnic display.

To help the board in their decision, the meeting then See FIREWORKS page A10

Teachers request input in superintendent selection

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

A formal request was made by the Antioch Community High School Education Association to be allowed to provide input regarding the selection of a replacement for the resigning Dr. Robert Schley. Dave Judson, president of the association, made his request at the last Antioch Community High School Board of Education meeting last week.

"The resignation of Robert Schley, Ph.D. raises the issue of how and when the position of superintendent will be filled," said Judson. "ACHSEA recommends that the position be filled by someone outside the district. The Association has grave concerns about our current principal and/or the assistant principal's abilities to serve in the capacity of superintendent. These people have not demonstrated the leadership needed to create the educational atmosphere that ACHS students deserve."

Last week's school board meeting was fraught with frustrated teachers, board members, support staff, and even angry residents. At one point in the meeting, an argument between a resident and school board President Laurel Dahl, began to heat up.

Joseph Hellstern, of Antioch, said, "Why did we wait until we are $2 million in debt. You are very poor business people. How do you run your homes." He went on to say, "If we have to get a class action suit, I will be the See TEACHERS page A10

Frustration, pain mark school meeting

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Frustration and pain are the only words to describe the last few Antioch Community High School Board of Education meetings. The angst was almost palpable as custodians got the final word of their job loss and Cathy Cratty, student assistance program coordinator, was so overcome she was unable to read her resignation to the board.

"I have been here for 15 years," Cratty said in a letter read by English teacher, Michael Shehorn. "I truly enjoyed my first 12 years. But the last three years . . ."

Cratty cited the breakdown of student discipline, administration intimidation, morale problems, attendance problems, and the loss of the respect the school has undergone recently. In her letter she alluded to working in conditions in which she feared losing her job. "I now don't have to be fearful anymore."

While Cratty said, "It is difficult to for me to leave," she has accepted a full-time job at District 113, Deerfield. Cratty had attempted to read her letter of resignation herself, but she began to cry and was unable to continue. Other teachers in the audience also had tears in their eyes.

"Thank you Cathy for 15 years of dedicated service," said Laurel Dahl, board president.

Cratty, of course, was not the only person at the meeting who will not be returning to ACHS next year. Custodians got the word Witt, Fiala, and Flannery and Associates (WFF) of St. Louis have received the contract for the custodial work at the school. With the exception of a few custodial employees remaining on the job, the rest of the staff will be gone. At this time, a complaint with the Human Rights Commission has been filed regarding this development.

WFF, in its contract bid to the school district, specifically stated,

"We look for neatly groomed men and women in the 30-50-year-old range who are responsible and demonstrate the ability to have good work habits." Limiting the age-range, as they have done, would preclude the hiring of some of the current custodial staff.

While the soon-to-be unemployed custodians have been told they will be able to obtain jobs with WFF, at this time, they have nothing in writing.

"I think we need to remember what loyalty means," Justine Lubkeman told the board. Lubkeman's husband, Donald, is one of the custodians to lose his job. "We, as a community need to protect our assets." She asked the board to "work within the present staff."

After her emotional appeal, without missing a beat, Larry Peterson, a board member announced the contract with WFF. "You people are out of your minds," stormed a disgruntled member of the audience as he got up to leave.

Loan buy-down program revised

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Village of Antioch's buy-down loan program has been modified by the village board. The limits have been increased, but now merchants will be required to obtain their loans from local Antioch banks.

First National Bank of Antioch, State Bank of the Lakes, First Chicago, and the Bank of Waukegan will be the only banks businesses may use to obtain the buy-down loans. One trustee, Donald Amundsen, had some concerns regarding this.

"The purpose of the buy-down program is to encourage local businesses," said Amundsen. "I don't think the local banks need subsidizing. It would keep them competitive."

At last week's meeting, Mayor Marilyn Shineflug told the board that the commission had strong feelings about the local bank issue.

"The RDC feels quite strongly about village participation and using local banks," said Shineflug. "It is along the lines of supporting your village. Libertyville limits it to banks in town. This is not out of the ordinary."

The recommendations came from the Redevelopment Commission. The commission also requested the board to increase the limits from $15,000 to $50,000. The board approved the increased limit to $50,000 and will even consider a higher amount on a case-by-case basis.

The board also agreed to put the current guidelines into ordinance form. This was approved at last week's meeting.

In the end, the recommendations were approved by the village board. The motion to approve came from Trustee Mabel Lou Weber and was seconded by Don Amundsen.

Grass Lake hires new superintendent/principal

Beveridge replaces Bill and Mann

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

In an essentially economic move, Grass Lake School hired a combination superintendent-principal, James Beveridge. Beveridge replaces Superintendent Dr. Ruth Bill who is resigning and part-time principal Ginny Mann who received a reduction in force (RIF) notice.

At a special meeting last week, the Grass Lake School Board of Education hired Beveridge. Beveridge was given a three-year contract, which will begin on July 1.

"He has got a lot of experience," said board President, Cynthia Marquart. "He is all ready to start work."

Beveridge had been an administrator at a military academy in Wisconsin for 18 years. Beveridge is currently the superintendent of Utica District.

Marquart said the decision to combine the superintendent and principal's job was primarily an economic decision. "We are downscaling," she said.

She mentioned that some residents in the district wanted the positions combined. "There has been talk about this for a few years," Marquart explained.

After the board meeting, a reception was held for Beveridge. Members of the Grass Lake School staff were able to meet and welcome him.

Antioch School District seeks board member

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community Consolidated School District was sad to accept the resignation of board member Glenn Amundsen. Amundsen has been on the board since 1990. His resignation will be effective May 27.

"It is a great loss to the district," said Superintendent Dr. Donald Skidmore. "His service to the community was outstanding. He will be sorely missed."

The reason Amundsen resigned was because he is moving outside the district due to a work-related relocation. He will be moving to Barrington, which is closer to his job in Chicago.

The board is now inviting any resident of the district interested in completing Amundsen's term until November of 1995, to send a letter of interest and a resume to Dr. Daniel Burke, 850 Highview Drive. The deadline for the letters is June 10 at 4 p.m.

A board selection committee will screen all applications received and select finalists to be interviewed by the board. Interviews will be held in a special meeting of the board on June 14 at 7:30 p.m. It is anticipated the meeting will be conducted in executive session.

Plumbing code seminar to be held

As a result of the new Illinois Plumbing Codes, a seminar will be held on Wednesday, June 22. The seminar will be held at Hogan's Restaurant, located in the Antioch Golf Club, on Route 59, just south of Grass Lake Road.

The seminar is expected to begin at 8:30 a.m. and should conclude at 4 p.m. The fee for the seminar is $18 (including refreshments and lunch) or $38 which will also include a copy of the code book.

Dean Thady of the Illinois Department of Public Health will be the key speaker. Lunch and refreshments will be served.

Checks should be made payable to Colette and Ano Plumbing, 822 Picard Avenue, Antioch, Ill. 60002. For registration form and information, contact 395-6600. Responses should be received no later than June 17.

Police Chief Chuck Miller and the other club members shared their fishing experience with the excited contestants. All the children won prizes, many of which, were donated by local merchants. After the young anglers returned to the shore, they were treated to hot dogs and soda. Many great memories will remain with the children who were lucky to have caring and concerned adults and family members participate in the event.

Students speak out for Moxley

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School students appeared before the Board of Education last week in an effort to get wrestling coach Jeff Moxley reinstated. Moxley's contract for next year's season was not renewed.

"It takes someone different to get the job done," said student Joe Earl. "What makes him different is the respect I have for him."

"I have been an MVP wrestler for two years," said Mike Shea. He credits Moxley's guidance for his achievement. "I feel that if you let Mr. Moxley go, the whole program will go down," Shea warned.

"I'm not a wrestler, but I wish

I were," said Matt Fasana, one of the student athletes of the week. "He is a great coach. He is a great guy."

The board told an excitable audience during a special meeting last month, Moxley's position as an assistant wrestling coach would not be renewed. Moxley is also a gym teacher at the school. At the same time, Norm Hahn, who is both a track coach and spring trainer was told his spring training position would not be renewed. According to Superintendent Robert Schley the failure to renew Moxley's contract was performance related.

The ACHS Education Association was very unhappy with the board's actions. Larry Kamin, Association vice president, said after that meeting, "The head coach admitted he (Moxley) had done everything he had asked. There were 14 reasons for the dismissal, all of them personal. I was told by him (the head coach) that he was looking to get rid of Jeff and bring me back."

"I will not apply for this job," Kamin continued. "I will probably get called in for this but I have to look myself in the eye."

At the end of last week's meeting, the board moved into executive session to discuss the Moxley situation. Moxley was able to address the board privately. Nevertheless, the issue is still pending.

Freshman sports still on hold

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Community High School Board of Education has once again put-off the decision to re-institute freshman sports. The program, which was cut as the school began to face financial difficulties, may be returned as a self-supporting program.

Several school district residents spoke out on behalf of re-instituting the program at last week's board meeting. "Sports is a vehicle for some kids to learn," said Tom Cromeans of Lake Villa. "If we lose the sports, we may lose the kids."

"I am suggesting to you an expanded partnership with concerned parents," said Robert Bingham, of Lindenhurst. Bingham is the deputy administrative chief of court services in Lake County. Bingham told the board that while he was not suggesting the result of a lack of freshman sports would lead all students to a life of crime, he believes a program aids in the adjustment period for some freshmen.

However, while none of the board members seemed adverse to the idea of reinstating freshman sports, they want to make sure there will be no additional costs to the district. Another issue the board wrestled with was how many levels they wanted to re-introduce. Board President Laurel Dahl also told the board she had been approached by parents who wanted junior level sports reinstated as well.

The board budget committee estimated a cost of $150 per participating student to cover freshman sports. This cost would be paid by all students participating in any level of sports.

Grass Lake eighth grade graduation

The eighth-graders at Grass Lake School will be receiving their diplomas on Friday, June 3 at 7:30 p.m. No tickets are required and the public is invited to share this exciting moment with the students. The school band will be providing the music for the event.

Permit required for use, possession of fireworks

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

While the Village of Antioch is clamping down on the sale of fireworks, residents should be aware of the fact that possession and use of fireworks without a permit is prohibited by the State of Illinois. A permit must be issued before fireworks can be discharged.

"Over the past several years, I have met many people who have received injuries as a result of playing with fireworks," Antioch's Public Safety Director, Lee Shannon told the board. "Fireworks are not toys and are to be treated as extremely dangerous."

According to state law, permits may be granted to groups of three or more adults, a bond of $1,000 or more is required, and a site inspection of the display area must be done. The state very specifically permits only sparklers, snakes, glow worm pellets, smoke devices, and noise makers.

Residents with questions about the possession or discharge of fireworks should call either Antioch Police Department, if in the village, or the Lake County Sheriff's Department, in the township.

Fireworks aficionados, however, need not despair. Antioch holds a huge fireworks display every 4th of July weekend. This year's display will be held again at Williams Park, which is located off of Main Street, behind the library and scout house. Make sure to stop by the park on July 3 to see all the evenings entertainment.

Shoppers save woman from attacker by car

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Shoppers came to the aid of a woman in trouble and helped apprehend the suspect also.

As a Round Lake Beach woman was putting away her groceries, outside of the Omni store, she noticed a man coming towards her car. She screamed as the man, later identified as Michael Doherty, 39, of Round Lake Beach forced his way into her car, according to police reports.

Doherty reportedly held her down and he grabbed the car keys and was attempting to get the car started. The woman began kicking him and was able to break free and run from the car.

Two Round Lake Park residents noticed the complainant yelling and went to assist. The man reportedly went to help and the woman lead Doherty in the direction of the store.

As Doherty was headed for the store another resident grabbed him and held him in his vehicle until police arrived. Once police arrived they saw Doherty being held by the man.

Once police interviewed witnesses, they arrested Doherty. Doherty was charged with vehicular invasion and battery.

Music results in arrests

On May 21, Richard W. Turner, age 36, of Antioch was arrested for disorderly conduct after officers were required to return to his apartment after a second loud music complaint. Later that evening at 3 a.m., Donald G. Galloway, age 38, of the same address as Turner was also arrested for disorderly conduct-breach of peace. According to the report, Galloway was "protesting" the arrest of Turner. The complainant reported hearing a voice of a male subject screaming in to public address system, "Attention resident of... North Avenue. I'm in charge here and I'll turn up the $%^&*() music anytime I want and if you don't like it you'll be sorry." Galloway was charged and released on bond.

Special song

Do your little children ever make up their own songs to sing? I know mine did when they were little. During circle time at Camp Crayon, we often pose the question, "Who has a song to sing?" the normal response will be something like "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" or "Bingo," etc. Every now and then a little one will pick a title of a song totally unfamiliar to us (or to anyone for that matter). He or she then proceeds to sing a made up melody.

However, the recent topper of all our little song writers is Matthew Marcuccilli. When the question was asked he raised his hand, offering "The Truck Song." Naturally, we encouraged him to sing it. He began, "Oh there was a truck. It was big and driving on the road and there were alligators in it and it was a dump!" As he added on more and more words, this definitely became another special moment to remember working with the little ones of the Camp Crayon program.

Fun programs

Once again, the Antioch Parks and Recreation Department has a full schedule of summer programs scheduled for everyone's enjoyment. For children 4 years old and up, there is a tumbling class held on Tuesday evening at the Antioch Senior Center. Class size is limited to eight. Tennis lessons will be offered for children ages 10 to 17 years old at Jensen Park. The days and times vary and the maximum enrollment is sixteen. Beginning karate lessons are available at the ACHS wrestling room on Tuesday or Thursdays for children ages 6 years and up. The maximum enrollment is 35. There is also an intermediate karate class being offered.

If baseball is your thing, the parks department will be offering a limited enrollment in the Chicago White Sox Baseball Camp. Day camp is available for children ages 4 to 10 years old beginning June 13. There are also swimming lessons being offered at the Aqua Center and the Lakes Area Community Band is always looking for musicians to join the band. Circle the following dates on your calendars for registration to the following programs re-opening in the fall—Monday, Aug. 1 for "Me, Myself and Mom" and "Village Campus" programs; and Saturday, Aug. 6 for the Camp Crayon program. For more information regarding these programs or other programs offered, call 395-2160.

Live and learn

When time permits, Miss Marie or Miss Lois may read a story book to the children at Camp Crayon. They are attentive and appreciative of this special activity only to a point. Some of them tend to get a little antsy before the story ends. Recently I was reminded how excited children are to learn from other children. Three year old Heather Rose Bednar brought her big brother Phillip to camp as her special show-n-tell item. Phillip is 8 years old and was excused from the "big" school in order to come to camp with Heather and read a story to the children.

As Phil read from page to page, all eyes were on him and you could actually hear a pin drop because the room was ever so quiet. He did an excellent job reading and the children did a superb job listening. They seemed to be enamored with the fact that this young man, who was a lot closer to their own ages than one of us, actually knew how to read. Thanks, Phillip, for the story and thanks, Heather, for the great show-n-tell experience.

Theatre time

Friday, June 10, is the opening night of the PM&L production of "The King and I." This is a musical love story full of joys and tears and beautiful songs to remember. Scheduled show dates are June 10, 11, 12, 17, 18, 19, 24, 25 and 26. Seating is limited and reservations can be made by calling 395-3055. The PM&L Theatre is located at 877 Main St. "The Foreigner" is the last scheduled production of the 33rd season. It begins on Aug. 5.

Fox Lake No. 114

As promised, I now conclude the rest of the Fox Lake Grade School students who achieved the "A" academic honor roll for the third quarter grading period—Keresse Kamminga, Tera McDevitt, Lauren Miller, Stephanie Minkalis, Scott Misicka, Stephen Morris, Morgan Morris, Brittany Payton, Amanda Peczkowski, Louis Reynoso, Samantha Rivera, Joseph Rosene, Keith Scholberg, Megan Stanis, Annie Torgerson, Sara Witte, Erica Yeater and Scott Zobrist. Good job, kids, keep up the great work.

Educator

Antioch Community High

School educator of the month is Steve Scott. Steve graduated from Western Illinois University, then went on to receive his master's degree from the University of Wisconsin. Many know Steve as a coach, in his 18 years at ACHS, he has also been active with the Illinois Education Association as a regional representative and local president. Honors keep coming, with a nomination for Who's Who of American Educators. Steve and his wife, Diane, have three sons.

His philosophy is to prepare young people to think critically and make educated decisions. Steve likes to add humor in the classroom and show mutual respect for each person who walks in to his classroom. As a result of his teaching, hopefully, ACHS students will be better prepared for adulthood and excited about science. Steve is presently teaching honors biology and animal behavior. Congratulations, Steve. By the way, can you tell me if Canadian Geese mate for life??

Award for teacher

Linda Zeman, home economics teacher at Antioch Community High School, was a winner of the Creative Nutrition Education Award for nutrition lessons she developed. At the 16th Annual State Conference on Nutrition Education in Effingham, she was presented with an engraved pewter apple at the morning awards ceremony. Congratulations, Linda.

Summer Sizzlers in downtown Antioch

Learn karate with Antioch parks department

Memorial Day marks the official start to summer. Summertime brings thoughts of long, hot days and nights; kids splashing in wading pools and making sand castles at the beach; families packing up the car and heading to the countryside for picnics; the smell of ribs and chicken on the neighbors barbecue; sunny days on the beach; nervous brides praying for perfect weather; boating and swimming in the Chain; the twinkling sound of the ice cream truck driving around the block; kids catching lightning bugs at the end of a long day...summer means different things to different people. Perhaps to you summertime just makes it harder to go to work when you'd rather be out playing and enjoying the weather.

The important thing is to make the best of summer and what leisure time you have. Let's now dwell on what we can't do, but rather look forward to what we can enjoy.

As you look around downtown Antioch, you'll notice many changes occurring for the summer. You'll find that most stores are open on Sundays, perfect for those of us who enjoy a leisurely browse around town. Sporting equipment suitable for our great weather is in stock and prominently displayed at BJ's Sports and Antioch Family Sports.

Maybe it's time to get that summer haircut you've been looking forward to. The expert hair stylists at Flo's and American Hair lines are booking appointments and accepting walk-ins for those summer styles.

If summer means wedding bells, let's all hope for great weather. At the top of your list I'm sure are details, details, details. If the groomsmen haven't been outfitted yet, talk to Jack at Four Squires or Larry at BJ's Fashions for advice on the latest in tuxes. For the bride and her bridesmaids, Total Affair has some intriguing specials for last minute needs. Don't forget about the younger member of the wedding party, it's an important day for them too. At Choosey Child you'll find a great selection of formal wear suitable for the child's age and size.

Make sure you are prepared for all the yard work you'll be doing in the months to come, check your gardening tools and mower. Remember True Value and Ace Hardware have a large selection of gardening accessories and are always willing to answer questions and assist you.

Once you're sure your barbecue is in top condition, start stocking up on all those summertime favorites. You'll find brats, burgers, steaks and chicken at Piggly Wiggly and Jewel. Don't forget to start watching for corn on the cob!

Nothing tastes better on a hot day than a double scoop ice cream cone or a cone with chocolate dip. Stop by and enjoy the summertime specials Dairy Queen and Baskin-Robbins have created that are perfect for an afternoon or evening treat!

Editor's note: Shop Antioch is a weekly newsletter showcasing Antioch's merchants and retailers. Prepared and written by Barbara Porch of Choosey Child.

Crane wins 'Sound Dollar Award'

Eight District Congressman Philip M. Crane has been presented with the "Sound Dollar Award" by the Free Congress Foundation. The "Sound Dollar Award" is presented annually to members of Congress who consistently vote for fiscally responsible legislation.

The President of the Free Congress Foundation, Paul Weyrich, declared, "It is important to recognize those who steadfastly support restrained government spending. Congressman Crane is to be commended for efforts aimed at restoring fiscal responsibility to our nation."

The award was based on Congressman Crane's votes in 1993 on issues pertaining to government waste, balanced budget, line item veto, and pork-barrel spending.

The Free Congress Foundation, the sponsor of the award, is a non-partisan, not-for-profit research and education foundation which specializes in tracking congressional spending and government waste.

The "Sound Dollar Award" was created as a way to recognize those members of Congress who have shown leadership in restoring a fiscally sound government.

Senate adopts Geo-Karis resolution on rights

State Sen. Adeline J. Geo-Karis (R-Zion) has won Illinois Senate approval of measures proposing a nationwide electronic verification system for background checks on gun buyers and ratification of a pact to eliminate discrimination against women.

Sen. Geo-Karis said Senate Joint Resolution 113 urges the federal government to establish a national verification system a dealer could call to determine whether a prospective gun buyer has a history of criminal activities or mental problems.

"This would be similar to the system we now have in Illinois, which is helping to prevent gun sales to individuals who might pose a threat to public safety," Sen. Geo-Karis said. "many other states do not have such a system. A national electronic network could be an important step to curb violent crime by preventing sales of firearms to dangerous people."

Sen. Geo-Karis' Senate Resolution 999 urges the U.S. Senate to ratify the United Nations Convention of the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination Against Women.

"This is an important international human rights treaty that targets discrimination and violence against women," Sen. Geo-Karis said. "The U.S. is the only nation in the western hemisphere that has not ratified it—in fact, it has been endorsed by more than 120 nations."

Village announces Fourth of July schedule

The Village of Antioch announces its official Independence Day celebration, scheduled for the weekend of July 2 and 3.

This event begins on Saturday, July 2 at 10 a.m. with an Independence Day Parade along the traditional Main Street route ending at Williams Park. Special children's activities have been planned throughout the day, and kids are invited to stop by Williams Park after the parade to enjoy events just for them.

The Children's Festival is scheduled for July 2, and community members are planning events such as a pet parade, bike decorating contest, patriotic costume contest, fun fair games, field games, Snookie the Clown, pony rides and a petting zoo. The Antioch Aqua Center will feature a special 25 cent swim. Various non-profit organizations will serve a huge menu of traditional summer-time foods.

On Sunday, July 3, the Antioch Independence Day Celebration continues with a variety of sports tournaments, bingo games, water fights, a tug of war contest and an apple pie baking contest. The evening's entertainment begins at 5 p.m. and features the Footlights Grease Band, Antioch Fourth of July Choir, Antioch Community High School Choir, Lakes Area Community Band and special guest appearances. Local non-profit organizations will again offer summer-time food items.

The fireworks display, sponsored by the Village of Antioch and the Fourth of July Committee, begins at dusk at Williams Park on July 3.

American flags will be sold for $1 each to support the celebration activities at the Children's Festival, the parade and the fireworks display.

If interested in volunteering during the Antioch Independence Weekend Celebration, call the Antioch parks director at 395-2160.

Follow rules for bike, skateboard, skates

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

As the summer season begins, more and more bicycles, skateboards and skates can be seen on the roads. But, before hitting the streets, it is important to know the rules and regulations concerning public safety.

The Village of Antioch intends to enforce an ordinance regulating the use of bicycles, skateboards and skates. Individuals caught violating this ordinance are subject to fines of not less than $25 and not more than $500.

Except in the business district, bicycle riders should use any public path or sidewalk adjacent to the street and not ride in the streets or roadways.

But, riders must ride in the streets in the central business district of Antioch. The business district includes Orchard Street, from Hillside to Main; Main Street from Wilton to Depot; and on Lake Street from Hillside to Main.

The regulations for skaters are the same as for bicycle operators. In addition, both must follow all Illinois traffic rules including stopping for school buses.

Skateboarders are not allowed to ride on village streets, sidewalks in the business district, or in parking lots. In order to operate on a private road or parking lot skateboarders must get written consent from the owner. Furthermore, being pulled by a motor vehicle while on a skateboard violates the ordinance.

These rules and regulations are for both the safety of the operators and the general public. With school ending soon, parents should take special note of these regulations and instruct their children accordingly.

AUGS choir makes 'Amazing Dreamcoat' finals

Twenty-three students from Antioch Upper Grade School have been dreaming of an opportunity to perform with Donny Osmond in the Chicago Theatre's production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat." AUGS select choir passed the first audition by recording two songs on cassette and mailing the tape, an 8 by 10 picture of the group and a short history of the choir to "Joseph Dreamcoat Choral Challenge" sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

The second part of the challenge was held May 2, when 36 choral groups from Chicago area schools, churches and park districts performed on stage at the Chicago Theatre.

AUGS was informed May 4 that the choir had made it to the final round held May 23 at the theatre. Four choirs will be selected to perform in the "Joseph" production from mid-July until October.

The select choir, under the direction of Catherine Miller, is made up of 23 students from sixth, seventh and eighth grade. Choir members are:

Abby Alder, P.J. Millburn board refuses unit district resolution

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Millburn School District 24 school board refused to vote on a resolution allowing a Lake Villa Unit District proposal to appear on the November ballot.

The board is permanently tabling the issue and won't vote on it. Unit district supporters will have to get 50 signatures from registered voters to be placed on the November ballot.

"The board didn't want to take a position on the issue," said Jim Blockinger, superintendent of District 24. "They want to let the voters decide."

Blockinger said the board didn't want to adopt anything which would indicate support of the unit district.

"The board didn't want anything which could be interpreted as support of the district. The board didn't want anything to be construed as passive support," said Blockinger.

The proposed plan for a combined unit district would cover most of Lake Villa Township. The district would be from Kindergarten to grade 12. The unit plan would affect students now attending Antioch, Grayslake, Grant, and Lake Villa school districts.

Supporters of the referendum are attempting to get all the affected school districts to adopt resolutions placing the issue on November ballots. So far, Antioch Community High School District 117 and Antioch Grade School District 34 have adopted the resolution.

Millburn PTO is sponsoring a forum, on June 1, at 7 p.m., in the school gym. Members of the committee of 10 will discuss the unit plan.

Planner to go ahead with baseball pitch

ALEC JUNG

Lake Villa Village Board agreed in consensus to split the cost with Lake Villa Township Baseball League for the village planner to prepare a presentation to the Lake County Forest Preserve.

The board and the little league will share the cost of about $1,400 for Lane Kendig, village planner, to set up a presentation for the forest preserve. The ultimate goal is to secure desperately needed fields for the league at the Sun Lake Forest Preserve.

"They (the league) would like to get started by the this fall," said Mayor Frank Loffredo. "By the fall we would like to be finished with the process."

The key for an agreement to happen is for the village board to answer concerns by the forest preserve staff. If staff is satisfied, the plan would run into little opposition by the forest preserve board.

Kendig is making drawings and providing information the board will present to the forest preserve. The board has taken over negotiations with the forest preserve after the league was having trouble with requirements of the preserve and the forest preserve felt more comfortable negotiating with a village instead of a private league.

The village had a provision in the annexation agreement for the Sun Lake Forest Preserve to provide playing fields. The league has tried for two years to negotiate a deal with the forest preserve.

Loffredo said it was agreed it was quicker and easier for the village and the league to finance the cost of presentation rather than try and have other entities in the township get involved in the process so late in the decision making process.

"We will just work it out between us and get it done with," Loffredo said.

The board likely will vote on the issue at the next village board meeting.

Coast Guard class 'very successful'

About 12 people signed up for the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Boating Skills and Seamanship course, and the rest just walked in.

Coordinator Millard Rutkowski was so pleased his class size totaled 31 interested boaters that he's already scheduled another one for July 11.

People don't have to wait though, as sign up is still being taken for the current class.

The course is held at the Grant Township Hall located at 411 Washington St., Ingleside from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and the cost is $20 for the books. The class itself is free.

Topics such as trailering, boat handling, legal requirements for both the state and federal, and rules of the road as well as aids to navigation, are among the helpful things learned by class members.

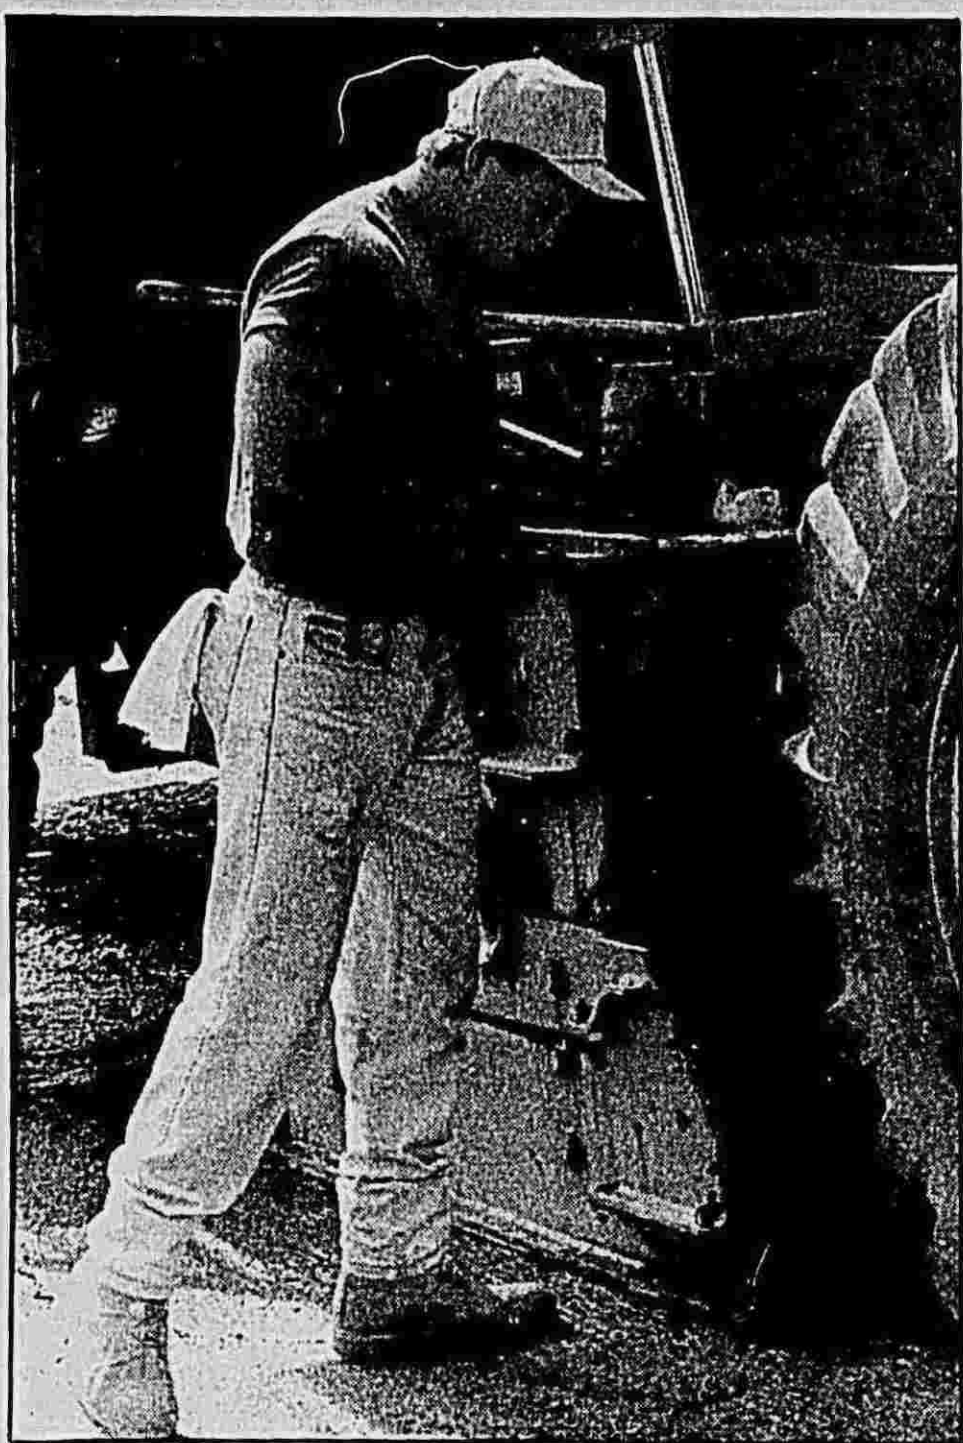

For more information, please contact Millard Rutkowski at (312) 454-6705 or (708) 359-0797.

one to head it."

Physical education teacher, Kathy Kelly also addressed the board. "If the direction we are going in is so great, why are our administrators looking for new jobs?" asked Kelly. She spoke of the problems of lower attendance and the lack of discipline at the school. "I put the blame on you," she told the board and Superintendent Schley.

Ann Kakacek, English teacher at the school, requested the board to find out first-hand what the problems are at the school. "The Association requests that a committee from the board of education meet with representatives of the Association to discuss the problems which exist in the district," she said. "We have tried to discuss these issues with the administration and have resolved only minor problems. We feel that before you can hire leadership for the district you need to know what is happening in this building."

Kakacek then had a suggestion for the board. "We further recommend that the board make unannounced visits to the school during the school day in order to communicate with ACHS students and staff members about their concerns," said Kakacek. "In particular, the board also needs to observe first hand the lack of follow through in the assistant principals' offices regarding problems in the study hall, commons, cafeteria, hallways, grounds, and the classrooms."

Despite the anger and frustration the teachers at Antioch Community High School seem to be feeling, they were concerned about how the meeting went. In a statement from the union, ACHSEA requested speakers refrain from attacking the board.

"After hearing the many views at the open meeting of the Antioch Board of Education meeting on May 18, 1994, we ask that all speakers, whether they agree with what the board has done or not, please refrain from ridiculing the seven members of the board," said ACHSEA officers in a press release. "They get no monetary reward for the hard job that they do. We ask you to understand that harassing them does not help the situation."

Drivers cautioned deer out in force

It's spring and, as in autumn, motorists are advised to drive with caution and watch for deer along Illinois roads, according to Conservation Director Brent Manning.

"While many deer-vehicle collisions occur when deer seek mates during the fall, spring is the fawning season, when females prepare to give birth and their yearlings leave to strike out on their own," Manning said. "To prevent colliding with deer that will be quite active through June, drivers should scan roadways and roadsides and slow down."

Marty Jones, urban deer project manager for the Department of Conservation, said shrinking natural areas and open spaces in suburban areas and increasing deer numbers are making deer encounters more common.

"If you come across deer in your backyard or other urban settings, try to minimize disturbing them, because deer can become frightened and bolt into traffic if you try to herd them or otherwise disturb them," Jones said. "The deer found their way into town and if left alone most often will find their way out."

Figures compiled by the Department of Transportation show that statewide more than 16,500 deer-vehicle collisions, resulting in six human fatalities, were reported during 1992, the most recent year for which annual statistics are available. November is the month typically recording the most accidents, with more than 3,500 occurring, followed by October and December, each with more than 2,000. Records indicate more than 1,000 deer-vehicle collisions usually occur during May and about the same amount occur in June. Most accidents take place between 5 p.m. and midnight and between 5 to 7 a.m.

Deer favor tracts that are brushy or wooded and usually do not travel alone, so motorists seeing one deer should anticipate that more are nearby. Motorists also should be aware that deer may cross roadways single file, one at a time. Drivers seeing deer along a road should slowly reduce speed and sound their car's horn in short bursts.

If deer are seen in the road at night, motorists should blink their headlights from bright to dim. However, if deer are seen at night, off to the side of the road, headlights should be left as they are, because a change in brightness might cause the animals to alter their path toward the road. The effectiveness of deer whistles attached to the fronts of vehicles, allegedly producing ultrasonic frequencies that repel deer and other animals, is inconclusive, according to studies conducted in other states.

Motorists who strike deer should stay clear of the injured animals, which have been known to charge. If a deer is killed as a result of a collision, the motorist may claim it and utilize the meat, but must contact a Department of Conservation regional office within 24 hours of the accident, or the next regular working day for accidents occurring on weekends or holidays. Regional Conservation offices are located in Sterling, (815)625-2968; Spring Grove, (815)675-2385; Champaign, (217)333-5773; Alton, (618)462-1181; and Benton, (618)435-8138. The Department's TDD number is (217)782-9175.

Wetlands restoration brings back species

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Some 11 years in the making, the Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project is doing its job in Wadsworth.

"Over the last three to four years, water quality and wildlife have improved," Donald Hey, project director, said.

The tour was beneficial, according to most, many of whom brought binoculars.

"It is great to get the natural habitat back," June Stelter of Wadsworth said.

Goals of the project since 1983 have been: to restore and create riverine wetlands, prairie and forest; research the biological, chemical and physical characteristics of wetland ecosystems in order to develop design and management guidelines for wetland restoration; and to educate the public, scientists, and policy makers about the functions of wetlands.

Hey does not paint a bright picture when it comes to funding from Washington.

"Two years ago, we had money appropriated, but the Army Corps decided to use it elsewhere," Hey said.

The project receives funding through wetlands mitigation funds. This is money from areas deemed low-quality wetlands which are being filled in. The Army Corps of Engineers has a say in approving those funds.

More than $8 million has been raised through private contributors.

Some $10.5 million is estimated to be needed through 1997 for restoration, research, education and project management. Almost half will be directed to research.

Sunday's tour was part of Wetlands Awareness Day, part of the Citizens for a Better County's efforts. The event was non-political, but the subject of the proposed Yorkhouse Road extension came up.

"The project board's position is it is very concerned about the road but will wait for the final engineering report," Hey said.

Scott Hickman, tour guide, pointed out blue winged tail, yellow headed blackbird and many of the other 179 species which call the wetlands home.

"It is somewhat like people going for the same job. Only one will get it. Then people specialize, which is fine until something changes," Hickman said of wetlands restoration.

"All the marshes are designed to flood," Hey said.

It is a problem when carp are present. "We take great pains to keep the carp out. They are one of the main problems with water quality in northern Illinois," Hey said.

Beavers have been found at the wetlands, with six to eight colonies building different beaver dams.

In the next five years, Wetlands Research Institute intends to continue restoration in four areas: semi-controlled environments, create new backwater and floodplain marshes covering 100 acres resembling presettlement conditions.

Indians set for new season

The Shoreline baseball League will have some interesting combinations to it as one of its powers has left, new teams entered and a new look for old teams.

One of the teams with a new look is the Gurnee Indians. Several former Lake Forest players have joined the Indians roster for 1994.

"I think, with the players we have added, we should be real solid," Indians manager Chris Stranowicz said.

Newcomers include: pitcher Craig Chipverolo, from Zion; Jay Garraghty, an outfielder and Dan Esplin of Lake Forest.

Scott Lucadello of Antioch returns to bolster the pitching staff. He was a key member of the College of Lake County district runner-up team.

The league will not have powerhouse Zion Dill Brothers, who left to join a different league.

Chris and his brother Bill are managing the Indians for the 10th straight year.

Gurnee opens the season at Faulkner Field at 1 p.m. May 28 with a doubleheader against Barrington. The second league game is June 5 at Hersey High against Arlington Heights.

Bullets tie first game 12-12

The Lindhurst Bullets 14 and under girls softball team traveled to Crystal Lake to play their first game of the season.

The Bullets and Tidal Wave battled to a 12-12 tie in a game that was shortened due to a previously scheduled curfew.

The Bullets showed early inning nervousness that allowed Crystal Lake to build a 11-4 lead.

Aggressive base running and timely hitting put the Bullets back into the game.

Pitching was led by Nicole Langley, who pitched three innings and gave up seven runs while walking one and striking out five batters.

Gina Seedoff pitched one inning, giving up one run with no walks or strikeouts.

The Bullets' 12-run attack was led by Katie Anderson, who scored three runs and Amie Carlberg, who had two RBIs.

Sequoits improve last year's record, await for regional play

The Lady Sequoits concluded their regular season with a non-conference 6-1 loss against Round Lake, but now that the season is over it's advancing in regional play that counts.

After a 6-10 North Suburban Conference record, the Sequoits were seeded No. 5 and faced No. 4 seed Zion-Benton Thursday. Antioch lost to Zion in two previous contests.

"As long as the girls stay focused, we'll be competitive against Zion," said Coach Judy Smithhisler.

"We have to play good, fundamental ball," Smithhisler said of Antioch's chances against Zion. She was not sure who was going to get the starting job between Katie Fetting or Michele Kilarski.

Smithhisler said Antioch's play this year has been up and down but she added that she was happy with the team's overall

"This year was a good year for us. The attitude of the team and the dedication they showed were key factors."

—Coach Judy Smithhisler

performance, which doubled the number of wins from last year.

"This year was a good year for us," Smithhisler said. "The attitude of the team and the dedication they showed were key factors."

The Antioch softball program also was forced to make some adjustments this year as the freshman team was eliminated due to the high school's budgetary problems.

Throughout the year freshman players from the sophomore squad were brought up to play varsity ball in an effort to help them develop.

"Our goal is to keep the program in tact," Smithhisler said. "The first couple of years might be tough, but down the road we're going to be very competitive."

This year's varsity team consisted mostly of juniors and sophomores.

In fact, a junior and a senior earned all-conference honors. Second baseman Stephanie Montgomery, a junior, and third baseman Erin O'Connell, a sophomore, were named to the all-conference team.

Smithhisler said she thinks they were chosen because of their consistent play.

"They don't make a lot of errors and they came up with key hits," Smithhisler said.

The winner of the Zion-Antioch game will face the winner of the Grant-Johnsburg game Saturday.

Relay's sprint gives ACHS 2nd at sectional

Who would win the Waukegan sectional team title had long been decided Saturday.

Antioch's boys 1,600 meter relay team was not only gunning for a state qualifying time, but a victory over Carmel for second-place in the 14-team meet.

Waukegan had a huge lead on all other comers with 122 points.

Encouraged by teammates lined up close to the ropes, Antioch finished with a 3:27.0, good enough for state and a 71-68 win over Carmel.

"The relay was great. I felt happiest after that race. There are three other guys running with you and you can't let anyone down," Aaron Bell said.

Antioch will be well represented at the state meet this weekend at Eastern Illinois University. High jumper Bell, who finished his day by completing a leg in the relay, finished second in the high jump at 6 feet, 10 inches.

"The thing I have improved at is holding the arch in my back. I did it really nice at 6-6. It could have been a 7-0 jump. Seven feet used to be a psychological barrier before the North Suburban Conference meet. I thought in the back of my mind I could do it, but I had not proved it to myself," Bell said.

Bell's best is 7 feet. "I would like to place in the top three" he said.

Bell advanced to the finals, but missed opening height.

"I was focused with a good week of practice today," Bell said.

Distance specialist Kevin Erickson won the 800 in 1:56.7. Jeremy Garbacz was third.

"Both work very hard in practice. They usually run the 3,200 and the 800 and 1,600. We decided to keep them fresh and it paid off," Antioch Coach Norm Hahn said.

Garbacz, who also qualified for state, usually takes the lead and this race at Weiss Field ran according to form. "The two have been pushing each other all year," Hahn said.

"I tried to get out early," Erickson said of his strategy.

Erickson had experienced success earlier this year as Antioch won the conference soccer title.

"Last year I had a hamstring pull," he said.

Antioch's Brad Rubash not only improved, but won the 300 hurdles in 40.0.

"I really focused hard. There is a lot of tough competition," he said.

By the end of the afternoon on this balmy day in Waukegan, it was Relay Time for Antioch's hopes. Carmel had hurt its chances of a second-place finish with a dropped baton in the 800 meter relay.

Matt Fasana, Bell, Larry Schmidt and Matt Mazur were more than ready, even though Barrington would win the event.

"We competed well last week (at the North Suburban Conference meet), but it was from the night before," Hahn said.

That will not be a worry in Charleston.

"I think we have a good chance with Bell, Erickson and Garbacz," Hahn said.

Carmel was certainly not without its highlights at thesectional meet.

Soph Chebny's fast start keys Rams to soccer win

Chenoa Chebny led the first-half assault on Marian Central's goal Saturday as the Grayslake Rams girls soccer team made history.

The Rams won 5-2 to notch their first state tournament match victory. The first-round win in the Stevenson sectional had an aura of "now the bad news" to it as the Rams faced third-seed Antioch in the second round.

Grayslake was 7-10-1 after the second win of the year over the Hurricanes. This is Marian's first year for girls soccer. Marian was the last of 19 seeds, Grayslake was 14th.

Chebny scored 3 goals in the first half as Grayslake had more than 20 shots on goal.

Also scoring for Grayslake was Robin Levy and sophomore Heidi Landschoff.

"We have to keep up the confidence and we will give them some competition," Chebny said of the Antioch battle.

"We were playing pretty nice in the first half, finding our marks in the open areas. The girls were up because that was the first time we have won in the state. I am not asking for miracles (against Antioch), just asking the girls play solid," Rams Coach Joe Martinez said.

Sherri Kwiatowski, a junior goalie, stopped a point-blank shot by Marian's Erin Lopez (who scored earlier) in a key second-half moment.

"I think she did marvelous. She cleared the ball 40-45 yards," Martinez said.

Levy had been only on the varsity for two matches.

"We just got tired in the second half. We got five goals on them like that. Then it was like a battle of nerves. They made a match out of it," Martinez said.

He credited Landschoff with steady play along with Stephanie Smith and Laurie Olson.

Martinez noted Chebny's different role on offense from her first season.

"Chenoa is coming of age. Last year she was on a high-powered line of Smith, Chenoa and Alison Waldenstrom. Playing with Waldenstrom was a real treat. She gave the ball to Chenoa. This year, we do not have anyone to bring it to her like that. We have to rely on our halfbacks to give us more power," Martinez said.

Smith has a wide range of options on offense. "That leads for her to use her cannon," Martinez said.

Smith scored what would be the game-winner with 17:33 left in the first half.

"We still have a lot of work to do, but I am very proud of what we have done," Martinez said.

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The grill was on high and Grant High's baseball fans stood up as Dan Dunleavy sought to close out the Grayslake Rams Friday.

The Bulldogs were ahead by a comfortable 5-2 margin and there was no one on base, so who could blame the Bulldog faithful for showing some enthusiasm. Besides, this win would give champion Grant a 13-2 record Northwest Suburban Conference.

Dunleavy came through, striking out Tom Idstein.

"You could not ask for a better storybook finish," Grant Coach Fritz Kazlauskas said.

The game was Kazlauskas's last regular-season game at Grant, as he is retiring.

That factor alone was a big one for the Bulldogs.

"We had very good defense. When we needed it, they came through. We played with a little bit of patience," Jason Morley, who delivered a key single, said.

"The kids played very good defense the last two weeks. Dunleavy pitched real well today," Kazlauskas said. "You remind him of changing speeds all the time. He had good control of his changeup, curveball."

"I had a rough start last year, but finished strong. This year it was the opposite," Dunleavy said.

Dunleavy, a senior on a junior dominated team, said his coach is good with fundamentals.

"I thought our kids played well all year. There was a good group of kids," Kazlauskas said.

The Bulldogs gained the win with two substitutes. Kevin Keller caught and Brian Smith played left field. Two starters did not make a practice and were being disciplined.

Grayslake led 1-0 after its first inning. Ryan Johnson got the key hit, an RBI single.

Grant (19-8 overall) took advantage of Grayslake mistakes to take a 2-run lead in the third. The only clean hit was a single by Morley. The Rams committed two errors.

"That is the story of our season. We play great for a couple of innings, then have some bad innings," Rams Coach Troy Harper said.

Harper said Dunleavy was particularly effective in keeping the pitches down. "There were a lot of ground-ball outs," he said.

Dunleavy (9-1 NWSC) allowed just 3 hits and fanned four.

The Rams (5-10 NWSC, 8-16 overall), did get a sharp double play when shortstop Geoff Sponholtz snared a pop-up and flipped the ball to Idstein in the fourth.

The Rams, 13-3 winners over Johnsburg earlier in the week, came to within a run in the third inning. Matt Formica walked and later scored on Johnson's second single.

Grant added two insurance runs in the next inning.

Dave Stone singled and one of the reserves, Keller, came through with an RBI double. Keller later scored on a sacrifice fly for a 5-2 lead.

The win helped amend the feelings of a 5-4 loss to Round Lake earlier in the week when Grant committed 7 errors.

This was time to fire up the grill, look back on more than 30 years of Kazlauskas baseball. And yes, look to one more game at Grant, the May 26 encounter with Woodstock in the first round of the Zion-Benton regional.

"We will have to play our best to best them," Kazlauskas said.

Grayslake opened the regional at Libertyville. The Rams gave the favored Wildcats fits last year, losing only 3-1.

Long haul

Antioch's Megan Dumey is nose-to-nose with Libertyville's Julie Goffe in the 3,200 run at the girls state track and field meet. Dumey finished with a 11:53.47. Teammates Tricia Keefe and Beth Lennon also represented Antioch.—Photo by Steve Young

Girls soccer teams win two

It was hot outside and both (under 13) girls' travel teams were also hot on the field. Polley Field was the site for two Lindenhurst victories.

POWER

The St. Charles Comets just didn't have enough to overcome a determined Lindenhurst Power team who downed St. Charles 2-0.

The Power (5-2) controlled the play throughout the 70-minute contest.

Jenny Barbera and Kristina Giangiorgi minded the nets and once again they shared the shutout.

Finding the net for the Power were Jamie Wismer from a cross-pass by Maureen Moran and Jourdan Phillips on a set-up from Barbera.

STARS

The Lindenhurst Stars earned their third win a row by beating the Glen Ellyn Lakers 4-1.

Punching the goals for the Stars (4-2-1) were Mandy Fasano (93) and Megs Kotlarz (91).

Assisting on the scores were Samie Korbai (2), Sarah Rimkus (1) and Amie Smitt (1).

Mouthful of dust

Ken Pendleton won the 200-yard-dash in 21.9 and the 100 in 10.7.

"We did Ok. But the major disappointment was the 800 meter relay. We were in the lead when we dropped the baton," Carmel Coach Jim Halford said.

"My times will go down," Pendleton said. "I thought the competition would be a lot tougher. I like getting pushed."

The East Suburban Catholic Conference champ's one-two punch in the field events, Matt Ehrhardt and Charles Burgoon, both qualified.

Ehrhardt's effort in the shot put was 52 feet, 6 and one-half inches, good enough for second.

Burgoon won the discus in 161-8.

"Both have a shot to get to the finals," Halford said.

One of the closest finishes of the race came in the 400 meter dash. Rubin Rivera nosed out Bell to give CHS a first-place, 50.5 to 50.6.

Libertyville's Ron Lutz took the pole vault title in 13-0. Andrew Willgress was second in the 3,200 meter run in 9:45.5. The 3,200 relay team gained second to Waukegan.

JV girls sweep to extend winning streak

The junior varsity Lady Sequoits brought their bats to the plate as they swept Libertyville 13-9 and 13-12.

In the first game, the Sequoits were led by Jessica Scmitt with three hits, Courtney Konrath and Sara Rockow with two hits, Kelly Perlman with a double, and Laura Deutsch, Liz Koeck and Jaime Miles with singles.

Deutsch pitched the distance, allowing 17 hits with three strikeouts and four walks.

In the second game, the Sequoits found themselves down 12-6 after five innings and 12-10 after six.

A seventh-inning rally began with a lead-off single from Katie Cox, who stole second base. Joann Jedeled singled and Cox scored.

Kristin Franzen singled, scoring Jedeled from second. Konrath then walked, and Franzen scored the winning run from third base on a wild pitch.

Lisa Murphy pitched the entire game, allowing eight hits with two strikeouts and eight walks.

In a Saturday twinbill, the Sequoits faced red-hot pitcher Jenny Boskelly.

The Fenton right-hander pitched both games of the double-header, issuing one walk and beating the Sequoits by scores of 10-4 and 5-3.

The Lady Sequoits winning streak was ended at six games, leaving Antioch with a final record of 9-13-1.

Lindenhurst boys score two ties, one loss

TURBOS

The Lindenhurst Turbos (under 11) traveled to Lyons Township this weekend and came away with a 2-2 tie. The Lyons team was undefeated.

The Turbos employed a new "diamond" midfield strategy to take control of the game and it proved effective.

Lyons Township managed only two shots on goal, but they both hit the mark, however.

Don Blagojevic scored first for the Turbos with an assist from Jason Adams.

Later, with Lindenhurst trailing 2-1, Adam Finney and Jeff Prorok combined on an outstanding midfield play to set up Michael Wheeler, who finished the play with a hard shot for the equalizing goal.

LIGHTNING

The Lightning (under 12) hosted the Orland Park Bullets and also played to draw.

The Lindenhurst scoring came from Clint Ludden, Quinn Gooch and Kevin Earl. Gooch also had two assists and Keli Owens one.

Other standouts included Ryan Hlinak, Scott Bender and Kevin Nelson.

Although the Lightning dominated much of the game, the Bullets kept coming back and scored the tying goal with two minutes left in the contest.

The Lightning are 5-0-1 for

ROYAL EAGLES

The Royal Eagles (under 10) faced the first place Stingers of Lisle and fell 4-2.

Other standouts included Kaleb Barrett, Erik Carlberg, Ryan Myers, Brian Halvey and Nate Rimkus.

A late score on a penalty kick put the Stingers ahead too stay.

The Lindenhurst teams will be competing in the Park Ridge Tournament over Memorial Day weekend.

Buckingham saves Carmel's chances for split

Not only is Brian Buckingham back for the Carmel High baseball team, but he has found a new role as well.

Buckingham was the closer in an 8-7 win over Marist as Carmel split a doubleheader. Marist took the second game 5-4 to give CHS a 16-17 record, 7-9 in the East Suburban Catholic Conference.

Marist had scored 3 runs to trim a 8-4 Carmel lead before Buckingham saved the day for starter Jeff Bunker.

"We had a 4-run lead and were pretty confident," Carmel coach Chuck Gandolfi said.

Buckingham induced a Marist batter into an inning-ending ground out.

"Buckingham looks good, but he needs work on his location," Gandolfi said.

TINA L. SWIECH

Authorities believe drinking attributed to Jason Pond's death.

Pond, 18, a former resident of Island Lake who moved to Fox Lake several weeks ago, died almost an hour and a half after he was hit in Wauconda by two different cars in the wee hours of the morning May 22.

Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson reported it appeared that Pond had been drinking when he walked out into the middle of the four-lane highway on Rte. 12 just 300 feet south of the Rte. 176 intersection.

Authorities are still investigating the case, but neither one of the drivers were charged with hitting Pond on the 55 m.p.h. road, while he was retrieving a cap that had blown off his head and out the car window.

Wauconda Police Chief Andrew W. Mayer reported the drivers were Jason D. Quinn, 21, of Woodridge, and also Lonnie D. Horton Jr., 27, of Round Lake.

The chief explained that it was dark—4:44 a.m. when the incident occurred, and even if the drivers did see him, they probably wouldn't have been able to stop in time.

Pond was a passenger in a car driven by his girlfriend Heather Taitel, said police. Authorities report the 18-year-old had been drinking at a party in Wauconda Township prior to the accident.

Police from both Wauconda and Island Lake said they remember Pond when he was younger, for some youth-related problems.

Arkansas native charged with arson

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

A Mundelein man, who police report has a history of juvenile offenses in his homestate of Arkansas, was charged with setting fires and damaging a Fox Lake business.

When Fox Lake Police Officer Mike Behan was making his rounds early May 20, he was notified of an alarm going off at the Chain O' Lakes Concrete company at 1 W. Highview.

As he pulled up he saw a man, later identified as Jonathan Richard Odell, 20, pouring what looked like flammable liquid from a large container then some from a smaller quart-sized jar onto an already blazing fire on a garage door to the building.

Odell was startled and became confused when the officer came up next to him and asked what he was doing. Odell said he was enhancing the fire because he was cold.

The subject, who police found to reside at 274 B. Archer, was taken into custody and placed in the back of the squad car. Officer Behan called for the fire department and another officer.

Doing a little investigating, the two police found one of the doors lock's and hasp broken off and an electric meter had been smashed, although it appeared to still be working.

Inside the building, a fire was burning inside a barrel of motor or fuel oil, with flames about 2-feet high.

The officers found footprints both inside and outside the building that matched Odell's. The keyholder to the business was contacted and related the day before, he had locked the door with both a padlock and hasp.

When Odell was being interviewed, he admitted to setting the blaze outside the building, but denied starting the one inside. He also told police he had been in the Arkansas Department of Corrections as a juvenile for burglary.

Later Bill Swift, investigator from the Round Lake Area Fire Protection District went to the scene and concluded the fires were set deliberately and with criminal intent.

Odell was charged with arson and burglary, and his bond was set at $100,000.

Damages at the business include a broken service garage door, a steel entrance door, Commonwealth Edison meter, construction material, and interior of building smoke damage.

Health Dept. plans kids' health fair

The Lake County Health Department and the League of Women Voters are planning the second annual Kids 1st Health Fair at Waukegan High in August.

This year's event, in the works since November, will be Aug. 3 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

"Our primary goal is immunization because it is way down," Sallie Hamm of the League of Women Voters said.

Hamm told Grayslake Exchange Club members parents do not get their children immunized because they feel they don't need it, or it takes five visits and they don't have the time.

All services at the fair are free. "We need volunteers. We had 1,200 at last year's event and we are expecting 2,500 this year,"

Hamm said.

Children attending may be entertained while parents give important information to volunteers. A backpack full of school supplies will be available.

Hamm said the first event was a success.

ISSUES

Juvenile criminals to lose confidentiality

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

After passing in both the Illinois house and senate, it will take only Governor Jim Edgar's signature to change the law regarding the confidentiality of juvenile felons convicted of offenses involving drugs, guns, and gangs. House Bill 2696 would allow public access to the names of juvenile delinquents who commit crimes that involve gangs, guns, and felony drug violations.

The bill reverses the current policy in which all juvenile offender's names are kept confidential unless they were charged as adults, not only to the general public but also between agencies. The bill limits the disclosures to only those juveniles committing specific crimes and will also allow the governor to share information on organized gang members and gangs with other states.

Judge Raymond McKoski explains, historically, the policy was to give juveniles a second chance by keeping their problems private. Recently, however, because of the increase in violent crimes by juveniles, the legislature feels the nature of the crimes are not children's offenses and therefore should not be shielded by non-disclosure. Many officials agree with the legislature.

"I think, in terms of law enforcement agencies, there is support for the bill," said Lake County Undersheriff Gary Del Re. "Statistically, a significant amount of crime is committed by juveniles under the age of 17."

However, there are some concerns about the bill as well. One worry is once a juvenile is labeled a "criminal" he or she will be stigmatized. Other criticisms of the bill include problems with the wording. Some are upset juvenile rapists would be excluded from disclosure as well as juvenile murderers not using a gun. Others are concerned disclosure includes vandalism, if gang related.

"I am not overly concerned about labeling a person a criminal if they are," said Del Re. "You have to take responsibility for your own conduct."

The legislation was sponsored by Sen. Ed Petka (R-Plainfield). "There was a time when the protection of a juvenile was the humane and right thing to do. But this is 1994 and the reality of streetgangs means we are dealing with hardened, incorrigible juveniles who commit vandalism, theft and serious drug and firearm offenses," said Petka. "The time has come to stop shielding these juvenile delinquents from their wrong doings."

Security reacts quickly in Six Flags stabbing

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Gurnee and Six Flags Great America officials are pleased with how set procedures worked when a stabbing incident occurred.

Jamie Dominquez, age 21, of Summit, Ill. was arrested on three counts of aggravated battery and one count of mob action. A 15-year-old male offender was turned over to juvenile authorities pending charges.

"It was very fortunate the incident happened just 10 minutes before the park was closing. One of our security officers saw the fight start in the Games Gallery and quickly broke it up. Another security officer was there within a minute and Gurnee police officers were there in a few minutes," Costello said.

Carlos Rivera, age 18, of Chicago, was wounded in the forehead and the right side of his body. A 16-year-old received knife wounds to his chest and back. Rivera was admitted and released from St. Therese Medical Center.

"We believe this is a very isolated incident," Costello said.

Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton said he is satisfied with the park's security arrangements.

"Our reports indicate the situation was going to occur somewhere. Unfortunately, it occurred in Great America. Great America's security reacted rapidly, the undercover police moved right in and Gurnee responded quickly. I think it was handled well from a public service situation," Welton said.

He said the village and the park work hard to maintain a family atmosphere.

"Metal detectors are being increasingly prevalent in today's society. But their program of photographing people as they come into the park, making sure they meet their dress codes and reserving the right to inspect packages are good procedures.

We will continue to monitor it," Welton said.

Costello said the weekend, with 85-degree temperatures, was a well-attended one at the park.

Some patrons did notice the security.

"There is security everywhere," a woman from Hebron, Ill., said.

Tim Powers of Lindenhurst said the incident does not change his theme park views.

"I was here two weeks ago for a commercial for the Space Shuttle ride," he said.

Tri-state fiasco not costly for Lake County

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

While many Lake Countians were terribly inconvenienced last Friday when police stopped a Greyhound bus just north of the Deerfield toll booth, the overall cost to the county was fairly low. A rough estimate by Undersheriff Gary Del Re put the expense at only $500.

The Lake County Sheriff's Department was required to call four patrol cars from their districts, the canine unit, and a helicopter to the scene after the Illinois State Police decided to pull the bus over. However, the cost to the county was not high.

"We haven't put a dollar amount on it yet," said Del Re. "These things unfold so quickly."

The police stopped the bus after they received a tip that Gregory Anderson, age 24, of Chicago, was on board. Anderson was wanted in connection with the murder of a Chicago woman earlier Friday morning.

Conservation group opposes zone changes

The Lake County Conservation Alliance, twenty grassroots groups and individual citizens, strongly oppose changing Lake County's Framework Plan from a policy of no new urban zones to one which would allow new urban zones at major intersections and transit stations.

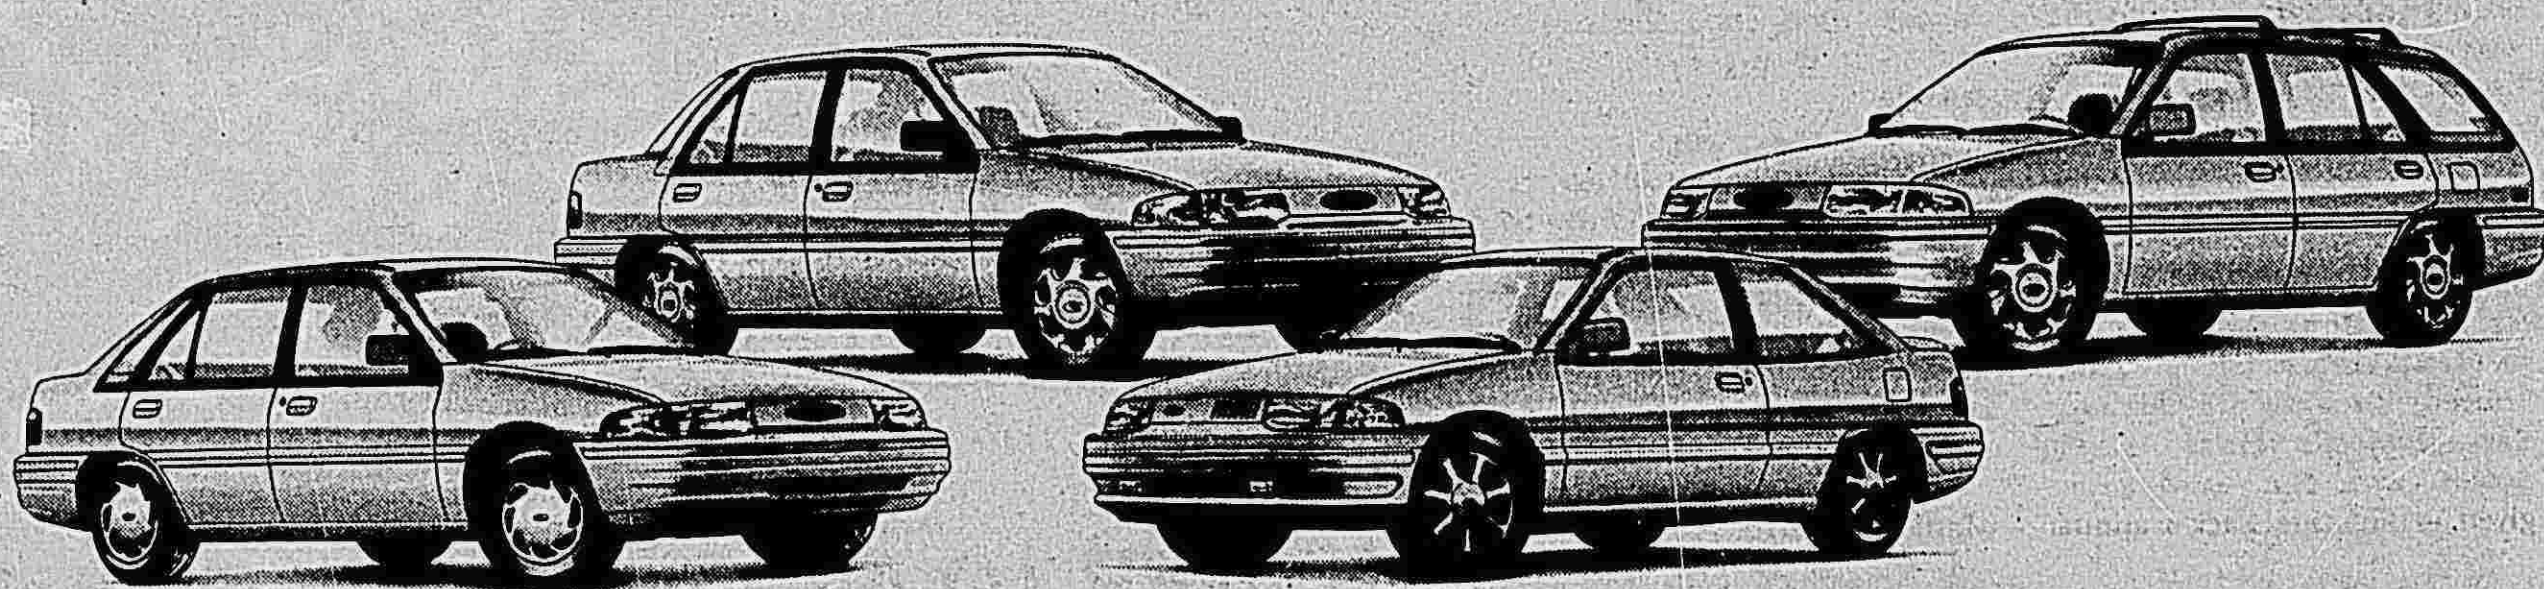

Such a change would have tremendous implications and impacts on Lake County as a whole, claims the LCCA. As stated in the original draft, which was presented to the public in 1993, urban development could only be built in or near existing urban sites. LCCA approves of this concept because it allows for growth

School board refuses request

WADSWORTH—Millburn school board refused to approve a resolution placing the Lake Villa Unit District proposal on the ballot in the district. Superintendent Jim Blockinger said the board didn't want to take a position on the issue. The board felt it was better to let the voters decide. Supporters of the unit district will need 50 signatures to place the measure on the ballot in the Millburn District.

Island Lake youth hit by car

COUNTY—The family of 18-year-old Jason D. Pond of Island Lake is mourning the death of their son after he was killed when he was hit by two cars May 22 on Rte. 12 in Wauconda. Apparently Pond's hat blew off as he and his girlfriend were driving home in the early morning hours and Pond got out of his car to get the cap. Two different cars hit him as he was in the northbound lane, just 100 yards south of Rte. 176. According to Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson, Pond died of multiple head injuries.

Offender charged with arson

FOX LAKE—A Mundelein man, police report as having a history of juvenile offenses in his homestate of Arkansas, was charged with setting fires and damaging a Fox Lake business. When Fox Lake Police were making their rounds early May 20, they were notified of an alarm at the Chain O' Lakes Concrete company at 1 W. Highway. As police pulled up they saw a man, later identified as Jonathan Richard Odell, 20, pouring what looked like flammable liquid from a large container onto a fire. After his arrest, when Odell was being interviewed he admitted to setting the blaze outside the building, but denied starting the one inside. He also told police he had been in the Arkansas Department of Corrections as a juvenile for burglary. Later Bill Swift, investigator from the Round Lake Area Fire Protection District went to the scene and concluded the fires were set deliberately and with criminal intent. Odell was charged with arson and burglary, and his bond was set at $100,000.

Apartments win nod

GURNEE—An apartment complex with more than 200 units gained final plat approval from Gurnee trustees Monday. Northlake Farms Apartments, to be located adjacent to Stonebrook townhomes, won approval in a unanimous vote.

Residents storm city hall

LIBERTYVILLE—"Assisted housing," such as the Lake County Haven, spurred more 80 Libertyville residents to cram a Planning Commission hearing and to voice their concerns about public safety, taxes and housing discrimination. Anti-tax activist Jack Martin brought assisted housing to issue when he mailed letters to downtown residents encouraging them to voice their opinions about zoning changes that would allow group homes and subsidized housing in downtown residential districts. Libertyville Mayor Jo Ann Eckmann and Village Attorney Cliff Weaver said assisted housing is available in all residential districts, not just downtown areas. Eckmann also noted that federal anti-discrimination laws prompted the village's zoning change.

Police ponder wireless video

VERNON HILLS—The Vernon Hills Police Department has entered into preliminary investigations about the possibility of installing a wireless video system to monitor activity in high crime locations in the village. A wireless system differs from the common video cameras most notably seen at banks in that a wireless system includes a video camera powered by batteries which transmits images via radio frequencies back to a police dispatcher's monitor. Chief of Police Gary Kupsak said the system could help identify criminals in remote areas such as parking lots.

Principal hosts late night show

WAUCONDA—Students at Wauconda Grade School were treated to a late night of entertainment provided by the school and Principal Robert Kenison. Although the evening's events on May 20 centered around physical activity and interesting hands-on lectures about such interesting topics as scuba diving with sharks, star gazing and living in the outdoors. The night ended with Kenison providing his entry into the late night talk foray. Called "Late Night with Mr. Kenison, the principal interviewed Greg Muhr from the Chicago Power soccer team and introduced a fifth grade rock 'n' roll band and a group of student dancers.

Memorial service to be held

LAKE COUNTY—A Memorial Day service will be held at the cemetery at what was previously known as Fort Sheridan at 1 p.m. May 29. The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, District Five are hosting the ceremony and are inviting all posts and public to attend. A guest speaker from the Great Lakes Naval Training Center will be present, as will a bag piper and bugler from the U.S. Army Reserve Unit 85 Division Band. The ceremonies will take place at the Phillip H. Sheridan Reserve Center. Entrances to the center are located at the north gate near the reserve building or the truck gate, south of the main gate, both on Waukegan Avenue in Highwood. Refreshments will be available before and after the Memorial Service at the VFW Post 4741 in Highwood.

Park guests hurt in stabbing

GURNEE—Gurnee and Six Flags Great America officials are pleased with how set procedures worked when a stabbing incident occurred. Jamie Dominguez, age 21, of Summit, IL, was arrested on three counts of aggravated battery and one count of mob action. A 15-year-old male offender was turned over to juvenile authorities pending charges.

Award to recognize 'family friendly' festivals

The Lake County Fighting Back Project is accepting nominations for outdoor summer festivals which promote non-use of alcohol or responsible use of alcohol by adults. The contest is open to community or church festivals which are held in Lake County during the months of June, July or August.

The Fighting Back Project is a county-wide partnership to prevent the abuse of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs.

"Many community festival organizers have decided to ban or restrict alcohol. We would like to recognize festivals which are 'family friendly' and reward them for their efforts. We hope this award will do just that," said Sally Thoren, chair of the Fighting Back Project's Public Policy Action Team. The award will be given at Fighting Back's annual meeting in October.

Fighting Back sponsored a training session in April for organizers of community festivals. Participants learned ways to promote responsible use of alcohol by adults at their events. The Public Policy Action Team also conducted a survey of festival organizers and found a large number were interested in obtaining information about making their events more family-friendly.

Nomination forms must be completed and returned to the Fighting Back Project Office one week before the nominated event. Volunteers from Fighting Back will attend nominated events to evaluate the effectiveness of "responsible-use" policies and procedures.

Hike, bike for National Trails Day

Two afternoon programs to mark National Trails Day are set for Sunday, June 5 by the Lake County Forest Preserves along with the Des Plaines River Trail.

A 2.5 mile long naturalist-guided hike will leave from Old School Forest Preserve near Libertyville at 1:30 p.m. At the same time, an eight-mile long guided bike ride will depart from Van Patten Woods Forest Preserve near Wadsworth. Bicycle rentals are available for $6 through Chandler's Boat & Bait, Inc., located on the southwestern shore line of Sterling Lake in Van Patten Woods.

National Trails Day is a program developed through the American Hiking Society, and is being sponsored by numerous outdoor recreation equipment manufacturers and retailers, the U.S. Department of the Interior and local agencies such as the Lake County Forest Preserves. The Lake County events are just two of more than 2,000 similar programs on trails from Maine to California.

Both the hike and the bike ride are for ages 12 through adult. There is a fee of $2 per person ($1 for Lake County residents). For more information on the Hike-and-Bike program and to make reservations, call 948-7750.

In addition to the 18 miles of the Des Plaines River Trail already completed, there are 51 miles of trail for hiking, bicycling, horseback riding and physical fitness in the Lake County Forest Preserves. Trail users can call 367-6640 for maps of the Des Plaines River Trail and information on other trails.

Successful volunteer program is the heart of LaCASA

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Volunteerism is truly the heart of the Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault. With approximately 50 to 70 volunteers and a core group of 60, these selfless workers man four of the major programs at LaCASA.

The volunteer program at LaCASA serves primarily two functions, advocacy of survivors of sexual abuse and their loved ones and community education/prevention. Through the hotline, school programs, medical/police advocacy and court advocacy, LaCASA and volunteers help get victims of sexual abuse through the necessary healing processes while providing information and education to residents about sexual abuse.

"It really takes a dedicated individual," said Joanie Dovekas, LaCASA crisis intervention liaison. "The staff and volunteers are so positive. They feel so good about what they are doing. Nobody wants to get a call, but, if it happened, the volunteers want to be there to help.

"I am very proud of the volunteers here," Dovekas continued. "They are in it for all the right reasons."

The volunteers attend a 68-hour intensive training program before taking up their posts. Many of the volunteers serve in more than one capacity for the organization.

Renée Graff volunteers for three of the programs: CAP, the hotline, and medical/police advocacy. She takes several shifts a month on the hotline, which is a 24-hour service that provides emotional support, information, and community resources to survivors and significant others.

"I feel strongly that if the volunteers aren't there," explained

Graff, "the survivors would have no one to call."

Graff is also a volunteer in the CAP program, which provides information to children from preschool age through eighth-grade. Volunteers teach children to recognize a manipulative relationship prior to becoming an abusive one, how to report it to a trusted adult, and also trains adults to respond properly to a child in this particular crisis.

The advocacy program requires Graff to be available at a moment's notice to rush to a hospital emergency room or police department. This program, also staffed by volunteers, provides support to abuse survivors and their families as they move through the medical and legal systems.

Graff, who has two children, has been able to adapt her lifestyle to permit her volunteerism. "We all have to fit the program into our lives. It becomes a part of our lives."

Bruce Marshall, is one of the five male volunteers. To him, LaCASA is the number one priority in his life. "This is a priority with me," explains Marshall. "If LaCASA calls, I drop whatever I am doing."

Marshall has been volunteering in the program for five years and has observed some changes in the perception of LaCASA in the eyes of hospitals and police. Even still, he is occasionally met with prejudice when he arrives at a hospital or police station.

"One nurse once said to me, 'Why would anyone want to talk with you?'" said Marshall. He said he was very hurt by her preconceived notion that he was the "enemy."

While male volunteers do not answer the phones, they are called upon to help when a caller would prefer to talk to a male about their abuse. "Not all victims are adult females," said Marshall. While the bulk of the calls are from females, there are some male sexual abuse survivors.

"For a man to stand up and say he wasn't strong enough or masculine enough to stop something like this, is difficult," said Marshall. "It adds a different twist for the adult male."

Marshall also helps out at the hospitals and police stations helping loved ones and significant others cope with the sexual assault of their daughter, wife, girlfriend, or sister. Marshall helps steer them through the anger and frustration they are feeling.

Marshall is on call 24-hours a day, seven-days a week. "This is the way I want to structure it," he said. "That is my priority."

For more information about volunteering for LaCASA or any of their programs, call 244-1187. The hotline number is 872-7799.

Finally, Route 41, or Old Skokie Road, from the Wisconsin state line to the corner of Rosecrans, is to receive surface work. All of the bids are for cold milling and bituminous concrete surfaces.

about whether or not the release of the names and addresses of offenders will really serve as a deterrent. In the case of gang crimes, it is even possible the publication of names could actually increase the amount of juvenile gang crimes. Some police officials believe gang members actually thrive on publicity.

"We know for a fact that they seek any recognition," said Sergeant Conrad Gutraj, of the Grayslake Police Department, in an earlier interview about gangs. "They just love it."

It is possible publishing information of this kind may provide gangs with the kind of notoriety they seek. However, other law enforcement officials hope removing the shield of privacy may encourage parents to become more active in the discipline of their children. "It may have an impact on parental support and responsibility," said Del Re.

"This legislation is in the best interest of the community and the victims of serious crimes," said Petka. "If this information is made public, people can better protect their children from these juvenile delinquents."

Zone Changes

but mandates that urban development not spread into residential or rural areas, thereby maintaining the traditional character of Lake County.

On the other hand, the proposed change to the Framework Plan, which will be voted on by the County Board in the near future, would allow urban development to spring up and spread out almost anywhere a developer chooses to put it said the LCCA. LCCA opposes this concept because it will lead Lake County toward the DuPage County model, which is exactly what the residents of Lake County have repeatedly indicated they do not want. Surveys have shown that people in this county are very concerned about their environment. In addition, outside studies have shown that highly developed areas like DuPage County actually have higher taxes than less industrialized areas.

"LCCA feels that local politicians should think first of residents' wishes and needs, not undercut them just to benefit big business," says Cheena Wade, the group's chairperson. "By allowing new urban zones, Lake County politicians would be leading us down the road of higher taxes, loss of rural character and traffic congestion. And we believe that local zoning decisions should be made by the communities they most directly affect."

LCCA urges County Board members to restore the original wording of the Framework Plan, so that the rural character of the county be maintained, and leave local zoning decisions in local hands.

After stopping the bus and removing the 41 passengers, police began a stand-off for over three hours.

The bus had tinted windows and police were unable to see inside. Police then formed a ring around the bus, stopping traffic in both the northbound and southbound lanes. After storming the bus, using tear gas, it was learned that Anderson was not on the bus.

Del Re said there were traffic snarls all over the county. Nevertheless, he stressed the potential seriousness of the situation.

"When you are confronted with an armed murderer, you've got to take it very seriously," explained Del Re. "Tactically, putting aside where the bus was stopped, the methods used to approach the bus were correct."

Mortensen celebrates 25 years with county

At a meeting of the Circuit Judges, Chief Judge John R. Goshgarian recognized Michael J. Mortensen for his 25 years of employment with the County of Lake. For his years of service, Jan. 1, 1969 to Jan. 1, 1994, Mortensen was presented with an engraved oak and brass clock.

Mortensen began his career in McHenry County in October, 1966 where he was hired by Judge James H. Cooney as a juvenile and adult probation officer and worked there until he transferred to Lake County and appointed by then Chief Judge LaVerne A. Dixon on Jan. 1, 1969 as a probation officer in the Adult Probation Dept.

There have been many memorable occasions over the years, according to Mortensen. The two that stand out are when Chief Judge Dixon divided the Probation Dept. into two divisions; namely, the Adult Probation Dept. and the Juvenile Probation Dept., and the second occasion was his appointment as chief adult probation officer by then Chief Judge John J. Kaufman. He has since served under 10 Chief Judges.

Mortensen attended Antioch High School and graduated from Northern Illinois University. He also attended John Marshall Law School for two years at night after working full time during the day.

As Deputy Administrator, Chief of Administrative Services for the 19th Judicial Circuit, Lake County, his responsibilities include the preparation and administration of the Court Services budget, training and personnel administration, and he provides resources in areas of automation including planning and needs assessment.

Away from the office and for relaxation, Mortensen enjoys gardening. He is also active in the Masons and on the Board of the Antioch Dist. Library.

Too many cooks botch up hiring

What started out as a search to replace the retiring superintendent of Fox Lake Elementary School has turned into an ugly three-ring circus.

Normal curiosity over the incoming superintendent, who was tendered the position in a letter of intent sent in April, has been fanned into a flurry of unsubstantiated charges concerning alleged shortcomings of the prospective superintendent.

Several school board members lay the controversy at the feet of Linnea Michel, president of the teachers' union, who is in a snit because the union was not consulted by school board members in the hiring process. One parent conducted a self-appointed investigation and produced "findings" on the prospective superintendent's character and record at a school board meeting. Many parents are dazed over the swirling controversy.

Continuing revisions in the Illinois school code have weakened the role of school board members, but one board duty that hasn't been usurped is the responsibility for hiring the district superintendent. Clearly, Michel is out of line in insisting that the union have a say so in hiring a superintendent, even if it might be good public relations on the part of board members.

Now that the hiring process has been thoroughly botched, where does this leave the board's choice, Stephen Shuda? School lawyers are tussling with this question as no doubt Mr. Shuda is himself.

'New' Cuba Marsh unfolds from old

Cuba Marsh, a somewhat pedestrian and controversial holding of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. for 18 years will emerge from a fall and winter restoration program as an environmental jewel a year from now.

The 610-acre preserve in Ela Township near Lake Zurich will be a show piece of the use to which the Forest Preserve Dist. is putting monies authorized by voters in a referendum in 1993 for development purposes.

Don't look for picnic tables and ball fields in Cuba Marsh. Restoration work will concentrate on nature preservation. Trails and a parking lot will be provided. There will be interpretative signs for visitors. But that's all. Weeds and "foreign" growth will be eliminated to be replaced by native trees and prairie wildflowers.

What will result from $400,000 worth of rehabilitative work is a facility similar to the famed Volo Bog operated by the state. Concentration will be on wetlands preservation and provision for natural habitat for wildlife.

The 246 acres of wetlands in Cuba Marsh are useful to adjacent inhabited neighborhoods for stormwater diversion, ground water recharge and beneficial effects on water quality. Cuba Marsh offers a classic window of what Lake County used to look like and a prime example of why similar areas should be protected and preserved.

Bureaucrats envision society without cars

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

An incredible bureaucracy is emerging to control urban commuting that is a precursor of America's worst nightmare, federally mandated health care.

And right here in River City!

Under the threat of possible loss of $700 million in U.S. road building grants, the Illinois Dept. of Transportation (IDOT), no small bureaucracy itself, is pushing hard to meet a July 15 deadline for submitting a State Employer Commute option (ECO) plan.

"We're going to make it," assured Linda Wheeler, director of ECO, in addressing a meeting of the Transportation Management Assn. (TMA) of Lake County, a privately funded agency dealing with federal commuting mandates associated with the Clean Air Act.

A cadre of ECO workers and a small army of consultants are hammering out the laws and rules that will govern the way you get from home to work. Carpools, vans and public transportation are in. Passenger cars are out, especially those with one occupant.

Representatives of 60 Lake County companies belong to TMA, attending periodic meetings where they hang on every word uttered by agents like Wheeler. At their last gathering, employers were warned not to shunt ECO questionnaires and other correspondence to the circular file lest they pay court fines up to $10,000.

Welcome to Amerika.

All the bustle and hand wringing is to reduce passenger car traffic in the metro area 25 percent to have cleaner air. Congress voted in the Clean Air Act to save the U.S. from the poisonous pollution of our automobiles.

Wheeler admitted that implementation of ECO rules will provide more congestion relief than clean air. But IDOT is complying despite efforts of the Illinois Congressional delegation to obtain relief from federal government mandates.

Hopes for relief might be so much pie in the sky because Lake County air and adjacent collar county areas are regarded by the USEPA as "severely" impaired.

Making plans for ECO is a bureaucrat's dream. One scheme provides for a company employee to serve as a van driver to shuttle workers between L stations, CTA or pace bus terminals, metra stations or park-n-ride sites to their place of employment. For the service, workers will pay $36 per month, which can be subsidized by employers to gain compliance chits.

You get the point how complicated this thing is getting.

Not to worry, the IDOT operative cooed at the TMA gathering. Participation will be based on "good faith" effort. "We're not looking for ECO police," Wheeler said—with a smile.

Oh, yeh?

Well, hang on folks. How far you can drive your car to work will be decided before the government decides how long you'll have to wait to see a doctor under universal health care.

As we were saying, Welcome to Amerika.

NON-POLITICAL—Willard Helander is taking a rather novel approach to wresting the county clerk's job from the Democrats in the November election.

Helander says she's going to "depoliticize" her clerk's race by pointing out how much more qualified she is than her opponent. The line that it's important for the sake of the two party system to keep a Democratic in county office is a flawed strategy in Helander's opinion. Maybe so.

The way things are going with the GOP central committee under its new leadership, pretty soon there will be three parties in Lake County—Republicans, Democrats and independent Republicans.

2ND LOOK—Judicial officials are taking another look at how to upgrade juvenile justice facilities after voters rejected a tax increase proposal to remodel Hulse House and expand courts space.

"We're taking your suggestion," grinned State's Atty. Mike Waller, referring to Lakeland Newspaper editorials that the search for more money should go elsewhere other than the pocket-books of taxpayers.

Call that a bit of good news.

Support A to Z cuts

Editor:

I would like to urge our citizens to write to their representative and ask about the A to Z spending cut bill introduced in the House.

It is an across-the-board spending cut bill that would not allow the cuts to be used for anything but reducing the deficit. It has been introduced by a representative from Connecticut, co-sponsored by over 200 representatives. However, Rep. Foley has it tied up in committee and not all of the representatives who have sponsored the bill will sign the discharge papers to get it out of committee. This is one way they play games. They can say they signed a bill knowing full well that it will not come up for a vote.

Call your representative's office and let them know how you feel.

If you would like to be kept informed of things like this, you can join the National Taxpayers Union. They do a fantastic job of keeping track of congressional business and monkey business. They publish a bi-monthly news letter I find extremely interesting.

Whole county affected

Editor:

What were the big issues before W.W. Grainger? Leash laws? Street widening? What?

But now it is appropriate that Grainger and their extravagantly strenuous efforts to change zoning from residential to urban creates an issue for all of Lake County.

The following is fact:

•That our primary and most secondary roads are overburdened now, certainly during commuter hours.

•That there are hundreds of acres already zoned commercial that are currently being developed or are awaiting development (i.e., the industrial park on Bradley Road between Rondout School and the tollway overpass). We have yet to feel that traffic impact on Rte. 60 and Rte. 176.

•Also, 80 plus acres between Lake Forest and Mettawa have been designated commercial via a recent court decision—overturning a 22-0 Lake County Board ruling against such a zoning change (incredible!).

•Allowing zoning modifications make it easier for property owners to "go commercial" in the future. There are over 600 acres within a three mile radius of Grainger's (now residential property) just waiting to see how the Lake County Board decides on Grainger's petition.

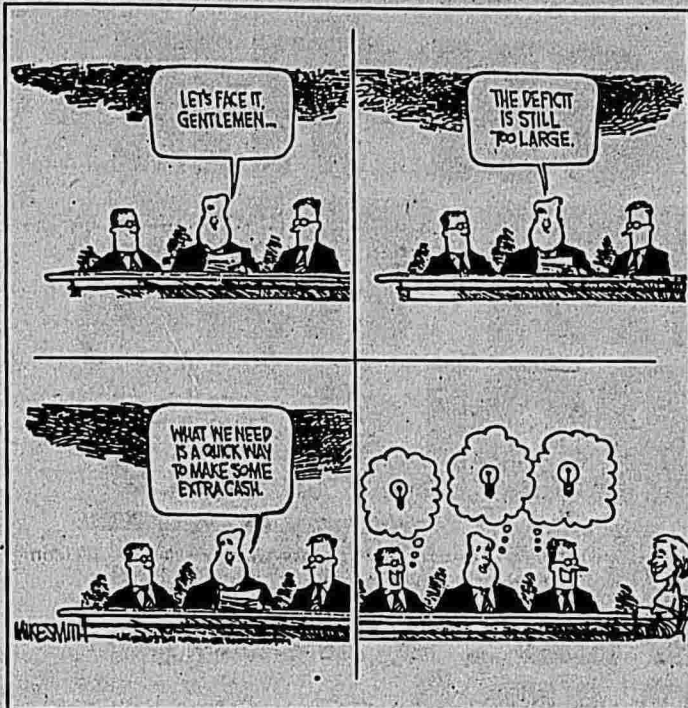

•Yes, in the short run the Forest Preserve and involved school districts will receive increased tax dollars, but later we will have the negative impact, with the increased expenses that such development brings, building new schools, installing sewers and widening roads again...

Our transportation arteries are clogged now. They will be taxed even more with developments planned in areas already zoned for office, industrial or commercial. Why change zoning that's so well suited to residential? Such a change will have a domino effect on the entire county—and it doesn't have to happen! No matter where you live you'll be affected negatively.

Get involved. Our Lake County's future is at stake. Let your County Board representative know how you feel about over-development.

Hidden taxes in unit districts

Editor:

So Lake Villa Elementary School Dist. along with portions of Antioch and Millburn Elementary districts and Antioch, Grayslake Grant High areas want a unit district.

I would suggest citizens talk to their teachers and ask them what happened to Round Lake area after it went to a unit. How many of the old-time teachers did they lose?

Ask a real estate broker or the tax assessor how much taxes will go up? If you live in an apartment building or rent a store, it will affect your rent.

Horrible scene for children to view

Editor:

Did you ever wonder why not one national animal welfare organization condones rodeos? Or why a horse broke his neck at a past rodeo? The Wauconda Chamber says, "This was a freak accident." If it happened once why can't it happen again? The animal cruelty that goes on behind the scenes is shocking. The rodeo announcer keeps your attention in the middle of the ring while people are kicking and using electric prods to move the animals along in the holding areas.

Last year I saw many children attending the rodeo with their parents. What a horrible thing to teach our children. Our world might be a better place if we stop teaching our children that animal abuse is fun, something to go and see on the weekend. I am a kindergarten teacher and I teach my students to respect all forms of life. I wonder what the children's reactions were when the horse broke his neck. I hear the majority of the audience went home. This year don't pay your money to see animal abuse. Spend your money on something worthwhile.

'Gang-attack' bemoaned

Editor:

I was appalled to read a newspaper article describing shameless behavior on the part of the County Board chairman and some of the County Board members.

They beat up on another County Board member simply because that member had the gall to question a very controversial last minute addition to the County's Framework Plan, which will govern county development plans for the next decade.

The board member who was subjected to the verbal abuse asked for public discussions on a clause calling for urban density development at every transit station and major road interchange throughout Lake County. The change was suggested by the attorney for W.W. Grainger, who is seeking rezoning to urban for a parcel of land now zoned residential.

The article did not include the dates relevant to the approval of the request: 1. Feb. 10, the date of the letter suggesting the urban density clause; 2. Feb. 11, the last date for receiving suggestions to be included in the Feb. 14 memo; 3. Feb. 14, the date the Grainger letter arrived at the Planning Dept.; 4. Feb. 14, on the same day, the 66 page recommendation memo of the Planning Dept. is issued, which includes the Grainger urban density clause; 5. Feb. 22, the date the urban density clause, recommended by the Planning Dept., was approved by the Regional Plan Commission; 6. March 15, the revised Framework Plan, with the urban zoning clause, was first made available to the public.

A sequence of events in February was quite extraordinary. Between Feb. 14 and 22, there was no public discussion of "Urban Density" being thrust upon every major intersection (Rte. 53 included), every transit station (Wisconsin Central included) throughout Lake County.

A first hand witness of the May 9 meeting at the County Board meeting of the whole said the attack was appalling! These personal attacks erupted because of the valid concerns expressed by the one member who is very familiar with the problem. The Grainger site is in her district.

Why did the chairman and other attackers go after this board member? What are they trying to hide? Are they trying to distract the public? Have they forgotten already how the public voted in the primaries, this spring? Perhaps they feel they must urbanize this county ASAP before the public dethrones them! Why

PARTY LINES

Lake Forest College makes it 'Dr.' Ginny

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political opinion, is compiled from staff reports.

As she winds down her career as a state representative, it'll be Dr. Virginia Flester Frederick for the legislator from Lake Forest.

Trustees of Lake Forest College awarded Frederick an honorary degree of doctor of laws for her legislative prowess, opening the doors between China and the

Frederick

U.S., leadership on issues related to women and the elderly and her profession as a designer.

The long-time Republican will retire from office in December. Until redistricting put her in a Shore Line sector, Frederick represented a large portion of central and west Lake County.

Known as Ginny to both friends and voters, Frederick made notable contributions in the areas of teen pregnancy, domestic violence, health care and pensions.

Trouble brewing—Expansionist Lincolnshire trustees didn't realize it, but they led with their chins when annexing Indian Creek Rd. That happens to be the home of Divida Terry, the Ryerson Woods deer lady, who swore off political campaigns after a stinging defeat for a County Board nomination. Did her pledge include village politics? Don't bet on it.

The serious-minded Republican who at one time represented a big chunk of south and west Lake County.

Deuster, an inveterate green-thumber even while shuttling back and forth between Springfield, has turned the grounds surrounding his Libertyville law office into a landmark of living things. (That was his law office on page one a few weeks ago).

Now he's created a semi-tropical atmosphere inside the covered pool he enjoys with his wife, Kay, who is retiring as a long-time teacher at Diamond Lake School. The Deusters, both avid swimmers, reside at Sylvan Lake, Mundelein.

Unchanged—Oldtimers are shaking their heads in amusement over the antics of Fidel Ghini, who served as mayor of Highwood for 25 years and did a stint on the Lake County Board. His style was power politics—getting what he wanted.

"Still the same guy," friends muse, as Ghini battles a new administration over the right to establish an outdoor restaurant in his backyard. Ghini claims he has legal zoning for the business in a residential neighborhood through changes pushed through while he was mayor.

Event—Citizens for Edna Schade brunch at the Forge Club, 634 S. Milwaukee Ave., Vernon Hills, Sunday, June 5. Tickets $30 by calling 708-948-9618. Schade is out to unseat first term State Rep. Loren-Beth Gash (D-Highland Park).

Good move—Avon Twp. Highway Com. Pat Anderson avoided a political blind-sider by cheerfully making sure spring cleaning trash gathered by volunteers was picked up at a "No Dumping" sign he had erected on a country road. Some taxpayers were grouching that Anderson "didn't care" about highway litter.

Safe drivers, safe highways—tips for seniors

By the year 2020, the number of licensed drivers over age 75 will more than double to 17.5 million, according to Lowell Beck, president of the National Assn. of Independent Insurers.

The growing population of older drivers, and the number of auto accidents involving them, raises concerns about highway safety and questions about what can be done to help senior citizens remain drivers for as long as possible.

Men over the age of 80 have the highest auto accident death rate of all drives, and women between the ages of 80 and 84 have motor vehicle death rates equal to teenaged girls aged 16 through 19—even though fewer elderly people have licenses compared with young groups, and they drive fewer miles.

The rate of fatal auto accidents for both males and females begins to increase at age 65.

"As we get older, we process information, make decisions and react more slowly, while our hearing and vision decline," Beck said. Night vision also is affected and it gets harder to see in poor light. "Reflexes aren't as quick and many elderly people take prescription and non-prescription drugs that impair vision, equilibrium, judgment and reaction time," he added.

When older drivers do get into accidents, they may be more vulnerable to injury. Federal car safety regulations are geared to protect 5 foot-10 inch, 170 pound men involved in 30 miles-an-hour head-on crashes. But the elderly typically aren't that big and they often get hit on the side. Their short stature may force them to sit close to the steering wheel, which increases the chance of injury from airbag deployments.

Almost half of the accidents involving the elderly occur at intersections, and elderly drivers are more likely than younger ones to be ticketed for failure to yield, improper turns and running stop signs.

Beck advises senior citizens to be safe drivers by:

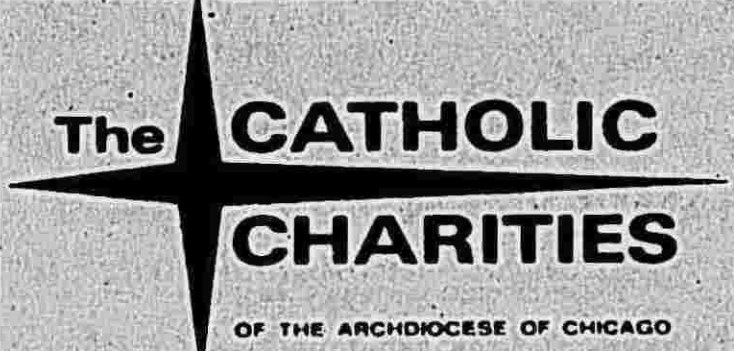

- Keeping a safe distance from the car in front of them;
- Avoiding driving during rush hours;
- Avoiding driving if they are on medication that may affect their skills;
- Limiting their driving in congested areas, or on limited access roads with high speed traffic and complex interchanges;
- Pacing themselves while driving by planning shorter trips and taking frequent breaks;
- Limiting night driving and driving during inclement weather;
- Using extra caution when approaching intersections.

Beck also advises older drivers to take a defensive driving course that is specifically designed to help them be aware of the physiological changes that may affect their reaction time, reflexes and other driving-related skills. Information regarding courses and schools can be found through state driver licensing offices, the American Assn. of Retired Persons or state chapter of the National Safety Council.

For example, the AARP 55 ALIVE/Mature Driving course increases the awareness of aging as it affects driving, offers compensating techniques, provides a thorough review of the rules of the road and emphasizes defensive driving techniques.

Some insurance companies offer discounts on their automobile policies for people over 50 who have good driving records. It is best to check with your own company to find out whether they offer the safe driving incentive, what courses qualify and the amount of the discount.

Ways to make homes more 'wheelchair friendly'

It is estimated that 70 percent of all Americans will at some time in their lives be affected by a physical disability. For these individuals, many of whom are older adults aging into disability, barriers presented by typical residential living can seriously compromise their ability to maintain an independent lifestyle. Stairs, narrow doorways, high countertops and small bathrooms are only a few of the interior design elements found in most standard homes that prevent a physically-challenged person from leading a less complicated life.

"People with disabilities will find relief from some of these frustrations by making areas of their homes more accessible," said Steve Kovac of Century 21 Market Place, Ltd. "An accessible home is a barrier-free home that offers built-in features or slight structural modifications that make it possible to accommodate the elderly, adults and children with permanent disabilities and those with temporary disabilities caused by injuries or surgeries," he added.

There are many ways to make living space more accessible without excessive remodeling or expense. Here are a few to consider:

Widen doorways or take out walls to create more spacious hallways. This will allow people who use wheelchairs, walkers or crutches to move about the house freely. Door width should be between 32 and 36 inches, with a threshold no higher than one-half inch. Hallways should be at least 42 inches wide, preferably 48 to 60 inches. Individual needs for access vary greatly. Wheelchairs come in many different sizes, and while a 32-inch door width may be acceptable for one chair size, another user might require a 36-inch door width.

Install low-pile carpeting with thin padding. That will allow the resident to more easily operate a wheelchair. This adjustment will not only prevent frustration, it will be essential in the case of an emergency, such as a fire, when the homeowner would need to move and exit the house very quickly.

Install chair-height electrical controls and outlets throughout the home. Chair height is defined as the distance which a person using a wheelchair can reach. Using a front approach, chair height is approximately 48 inches; using a parallel approach, chair height is approximately 54 inches.

Create a level entryway or install a ramp with an entry-level landing for easy door opening. A home with a ground-level entrance is ideal for simplified entry and exit. However, a one- or two-step entrance clear of any major obstructions such as trees, foliage or planters should accept a ramp with a mile slope (one inch in height per 12 inches in length) with relative ease.

Modify the kitchen area and the appliances to make them more "wheelchair friendly." Install a front-control range or countertop range to simplify cooking, and a side-by-side refrigerator that will eliminate the need for a difficult-to-reach top freezer compartment. Lower countertops and modify counter and cupboard space to include pull-out cutting boards. A U- or L-shaped kitchen will accommodate a wheelchair better than a kitchen with an "island" or other built-in features that might present obstacles.

Changing places with aging parents

Your parents always took care of you as a child, and now that they're getting older, they might need you to take care of them. It's a switch in roles, and few people are prepared for the emotional and physical drain of these changes.

Thinking about your future role as caregiver may help ease the transition. When you understand the scope of your responsibilities, you can create an organized plan to deal with them.

The first decision that must be made is your involvement in the care of your parents or elderly relative. Will you be the only person giving round-the-clock care, or do you have brothers and sisters who are willing to help? Will there be a medical professional to assist you, either part-time or full-time? Your family pharmacist or physician can often recommend someone, according to NARD, the national association representing the independent retail pharmacy.

Will your parents move into your home, or will you be stopping by theirs on a daily basis? Are there medications that you will need to administer? If so, arrange a consultation with the family pharmacist to discuss their prescriptions. There are pharmacists who specialize in home care and long-term care, and can consult with you and your parents at home. Check with your family pharmacist for a referral, or contact the NARD Home Health Care/Long Term Care Division at 1(800)544-7447.

You must also weigh other responsibilities that may demand your attention. Are there young children in the house? Do you work outside of the home, requiring you to be away from most of the day? If you do, a nursing home or other long-term care facility may be the answer.

Once you decide to what extent you wish to be involved—and other siblings, children and the patient should all be involved in this decision—establish some guidelines.

Set aside some personal time every day. It is important that you maintain your own mental and physical health. Take half-hour breaks whenever possible, and if the care is long-term, arrange a few weekends away. Don't be forced into an uncomfortable situation. If you are too tired to bring your dependent parents to the pharmacy, and the trip is unnecessary, put it off until a better time.

Finally, be patient—your parents are probably experiencing some of the same emotions that you are feeling. Independence is important to everyone, and losing it is frustrating. Let your parents do as much as possible by themselves.

Members of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of HealthReach, Inc., have been recognized by the National Awards Program of the American College of Physician Executives.

Sister Christine Bowman, Ray Empereur, Howard Jaffe, Patricia Behling, Whelma Guilmond, Nickolas Stamatakis and Daniel Rodriguez were honored at the National Awards Program presentation at the national conference, Perspectives in Medical Management May 4-7 in Washington, DC.

The 1994 National Awards

Program is co-sponsored by The Travelers and Merck. The program recognizes exceptional work done by health care professionals who have made advances in improving the quality of health care or who have made advances in improving the management of health care costs.

HealthReach is a not-for-profit, united community, volunteer effort for Lake County headquartered at 201 Liberty St. in Waukegan. The organization increases access to primary health care for the medically underserved by offering direct primary and specialty medical services, information, and referral.

Staffed by volunteer physicians, nurses, translators, allied health professionals, and support staff, the clinic is open to patients 3 days a week. The hours of operation are Mon. and Wed., 3 p.m. to 7 p.m., and Sat., 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The hours are intentionally set to allow greater access to the working poor who cannot afford to take time off work to see a doctor. Office hours from 9 a.m. to noon are designed to serve patients who walk into the clinic needing a referral or nursing assessment when no physician is on duty.

The HealthReach clinic offers a broad array of special medical services through referral including cardiology, chiropractic, dental, endocrinology, gastroenterology, gynecology, neurology, oncology, ophthalmology, orthopedic, ENT, pediatric, adult and pediatric psychiatry, and surgical urological services on a pro bono basis.

Patients are asked to donate $5 per visit, but that is not a requirement for services at the clinic. Visits now average more than 300 per month.

The American College of Physician Executives is a national professional association of physicians in leadership and management positions throughout the health care field with membership [totaling over 8,000 members.

Rationing: hidden cost of government price controls

It's the "R" word which no one wants to address in the health care reform debate.

R is for rationing. Both proponents and opponents of the Clinton administration's health plan have accused each other of favoring a plan which would result in rationing of medical services. Thus far, though, there has been little substantive discussion about whether rationing would occur under various health care reform proposals.

One sure way of rationing care is by adapting a health care system like that in Canada. Even supporters of the so-called single-payer system admit health care is rationed under their plan in the name of assuring universal coverage. A recent study by The Fraser Institute of Vancouver, Canada reported that Canadians experienced long waits before they could see specialist physicians. For example, Canadians waited an average of 30 weeks to see a cardiologist and about 16 weeks before receiving treatment from a gynecologist.

Basic nurse assistant program

Registration is open for College of Lake County's seven-week basic nurse assistant training program beginning June 6. Approved by the Illinois Department of Public Health, the program will prepare students to become nurse assistants with immediate entry-level job opportunities in long-term care facilities and hospitals.

Classes will be offered from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday and 5 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday at CLC's Grayslake campus, 19351 W. Washington St., and 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday at Lakeshore Campus, 111 N. Genesee, Waukegan. Applicants must speak English, have an eighth-grade reading level and pass a reading placement test. Students who complete the program are eligible to take the state-mandated written competency examination for nurse assistant certification.

The cost is $236.10 for in-district residents. For registration information, call 223-6601, ext. 2340.

Besides specialist care, Canadians also ration their hospital care. It is not unusual in Canada for hospitals to shut down in the last weeks of the fiscal year. That is because the Canadian system relies on government global budgets enforced by price controls.

In some provinces of Canada, experts say, a budget debate is raging over whether too much money is spent on health care at the expense of other government responsibilities like public safety and education.

"That is the danger in any system which relies on global budgets and price controls," said Theodore E. Desch, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Illinois senior vice president of law and corporate affairs. "The spending limits are driven by budget priorities and politics that have little or nothing to do with actual health care needs."

Though not a single-payer plan, President Clinton's health care reform plan proposes global budgets enforced by premium caps, or price controls, on insurers. Other liberal members of Congress, like U.S. Rep. Pete Stark (D-California), also propose price controls in their reform proposals.

"Price controls have never worked—not in 40 centuries," said Desch. "Imposing price controls on our health care system would create perverse incentives for rationing medical care."

Desch and other health industry experts say premium caps would discourage health plans from creating new and innovative networks of doctors and hospitals. Instead, plans would have an incentive to downsize their networks of physicians leading to longer waiting lines, lower consumer satisfaction and de facto rationing of access to service.

"The American people would never tolerate that," Desch said.

REVIEW

'The Last Rehearsal,' confusing, yet delightful

JIM REED

Correspondent

You can tell that the non-profit theatre company, Stage Two in Waukegan, has enjoyed putting together its current production just by the nature of the play itself. "The Last Rehearsal" is a comedy by Gilbert Martin that takes an introspective look at the theatre itself, presenting a play within a play within a play within . . . Sound confusing? Well, sometimes it is, but the confusion is a delightful one.

The plot revolves around an eccentric director, J.C., and his tolerant wife and playwright, Eleanor. They are Broadway collaborators who have produced plays for the last fifteen years that have been far from perfect. They hope to rescue their dwindling careers with their latest creation, a play about two actors rehearsing for a play about a director and a playwright. Their producer, in an attempt to make the production a box office success, forces J.C. and Eleanor to work with two Hollywood actors who are just as eccentric as J.C. himself.

The play begins with full-fledged bickering on behalf of the stubborn characters, all of whom will apparently not bend to the want of others. The bickering is almost too unbearable for an audience to cope with, and, as a result, some of the play's humor is lost in the maelstrom of bitter intonations. The play is a comedy and director, Timothy Mooney, along with the talented and well-enssembled cast, found the appropriate laughing points in the play and brought them forth with sporadic success. But sometimes you just want the character of J.C. to lighten up a little and crack a smile for a change.

The production borders on melodrama at times, and this is obviously intentional for some nice bits of humor. Since the play is more or less a commentary on theatre itself, over-dramatized acting and playing directly to the audience on key lines provokes a deserving laugh. At other times, the melodramatic moments are sincere and touching, giving the performance another dimension of live theatre.

Storyteller paints vivid pictures of childhood

Nancy Siedler, artist and wife of Jim May did the painting which is featured on the cover of May's new book, "The Farm on Nippersink Creek." The couple now reside in a barn almost 150-years old in the rural town of Harvard, which brings May closer to his roots.

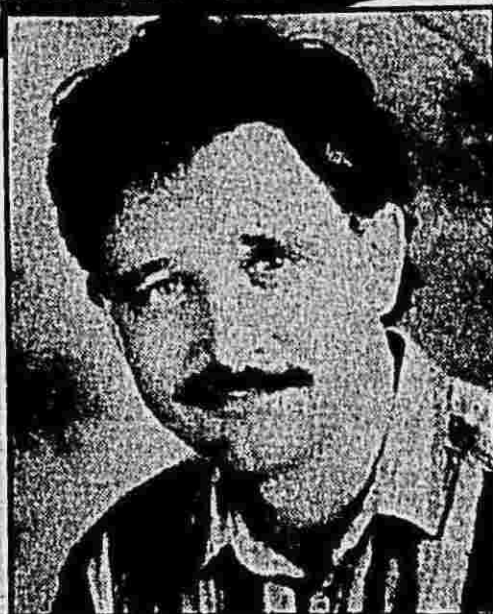

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

Anyone can take an excursion back into their childhood memories, but not everyone can recall them like Jim May.

May was born on a small dairy farm, and when he was 8-years old his family moved to Spring Grove, then population 200, a German-Catholic community along the banks of Nippersink Creek.

The youngest of a large brood of farm children, May began using his detailed memoirs and the stories he heard as a child to entertain and educate his fifthgrade students at an elementary school in Woodstock.

He did the same while a counselor at McHenry County College in Crystal Lake, and then began as a professional storyteller, making that his sole income. The fire in his heart and soul was ignited when May went to his first storytelling festival in Jonesborough, Tenn.

"The first time I saw the people telling stories, I was fascinated. I drove back home and the next day I told my fifth-graders. I had suddenly connected with them!" explained May.

In 1989, May received a highly revered Emmy Award for his televised narration of "A Bell for Shorty," one of the stories in his newly released book "The Farm on Nippersink Creek."

The book, published by August House of Little Rock, Ark., is a collection of 18 vignettes of one man's look back at his Midwestern childhood. Each story is a tribute to a place and time in the heartland. This is his second book and it will no doubt make you laugh and make you cry when you read the descriptive recollections and old tales May paints.

His first book is for children and is entitled "The Boo Babies."

Growing up between the Truman and JFK eras, May had many stories to tell, and began traveling around the country and the world, relating his remembrances to all who would hear them.

The rural Midwest was a simple life. Dad's marched in the Memorial Day parade, boys killed frogs with BB guns, and Converse All-Stars were seen only on the basketball court. The predominant industry was the family farm.

May ran away from the country life and attended the University of Illinois where he double-majored in Russian and urban problems. But he has moved back to a place near his roots.

"I wanted to get as far away from Spring Grove as possible," said May, who explained quite a few of the young students at the university he attended felt the same way. He adores and treasures the times he had while in the rural town and began missing it. "I think storytelling has a way of returning you to your roots."

May and his wife, artist Nancy Siedler, now live in an old barn, dating back to the 1840s, shipped down from Wisconsin and placed in Harvard—"the Milk Capital of Illinois."

Even now when May returns to visit Spring Grove, and sees St. Peter's Church "a colonial red-brick building with wooden columns and a steeple of stark white," as well as other landmarks and locations, he says "The memories are still there."

May has many scheduled events coming up, and one of the finest will be held in Spring Grove. The Illinois Storytelling Festival runs July 30 and 31 at the Spring Grove Village Park on Main St. just off Rte. 12 four miles north of Fox Lake.

Besides May, other featured storytellers include Donald Davis of the Appalachian mountain area; Olga Loya, a bilingual storyteller who has performed across the United States and Mexico; an African Griot storyteller from Chicago who combines poetry, chants and spellbinding African instruments.

Duncan Williamson of Iyfe, Scotland will also perform. He is recognized as one of the greatest traditional storytellers in the English-speaking world.

On June 4 at 7 p.m., May will have a book-signing at Memorial Hall at 10308 Main St. in Richmond. The storyteller often works with area schools, telling his tales and entertaining the children.

For information about book-ing May at your affair or school, please call him at (815) 648-2039.

Children helping children concert

Music for the deaf? It may be a bit unusual, but that is exactly what the Barrington Children's Choir and the Chicago Choirmen are planning. "Summer Serenade—An Evening with Mozart" will be held June 3 at 8 p.m. at the Woodstock Opera House. The concert will benefit the McHenry County based Foundation for Deaf Children.

Children helping children is what this concert is all about. The children's choir of 105 auditioned voices is excited about the prospect of being able to help others who don't have the capability of listening to the beautiful music the choirs perform. Choir members will have several opportunities to meet their hearing impaired friends at the gala reception following the concert.

For ticket information contact Leslie Kowitz at 487-2345.

Just for kids

Don't miss "Just For Kids Day," co-sponsored by Toys R Us, on June 5 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lambs Farm. Admission is free for this special day that promises a lot of fun for kids of all ages. Come meet Bozo the Clown, and Bugs Bunny will visit from Six Flags Great America. See the Chicago Police Dept.'s Canine Unit, Des Plaines Fire Dept.'s Fire Safety Smoke House, Libertyville Police Dept.'s Mounted Patrol, and Des Plaines Police Dept.'s educational mobile and drug awareness unit.

The "Atomic Fireballs" will provide musical entertainment. Jojo and Kiwi, Lamb's own famous clowns, will be up to their usual tricks. Stilt walkers and a magic act will add to the festivities.

Have a ball jumping and playing in the Castlewalk. The first 200 kids through the Castlewalk will receive gift certificates for Toys R Us toy stores. Concession stands will have plenty of delicious food and cold beverages. For further information call 362-4636.

Fifty hands-on exhibits teach what energy is and how it affects your life. For example, a pinball machine teaches visitors about nuclear chain reactions, ride a bicycle to generate your own electricity, and take the power into your hands by recommending an energy policy for the future.

The Power House is located on the shores of Lake Michigan just north of the Illinois Beach State Park. It is fully accessible to disabled visitors, and is open to the public. Hours are Mondays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information call 746-7080.

How to save money calling home from overseas

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Many first time travelers have been shocked to find an "outrageous" surcharge for long distance calls on their hotel bill here in the U.S. Well, unless you have phoned home from a hotel overseas, you don't know how outrageous a surcharge can be!

In many countries in Europe, a surcharge of 200 to 300 percent of the call is not unusual. Considering that a call home is an expensive proposition to start with, tripling it may cause you to have to skip a few meals. The answer is simple, don't call from your room. But what are your alternatives?

Pay phones are one choice. They won't look like the phone on the corner back home, but you will find them in most of Europe. Learning how to use them may also be a challenge, but that's all part of the fun of overseas travel! There's usually a set of instructions on the phone, and if you're lucky it will be in English.

Aside from pay phones, you can go to one of the phone company offices to call the folks back in Lake Villa. Just look for the symbol "TT" in most of Europe. In Switzerland and France, look for "PTT". You just walk in, give the clerk the number you wish to call and you will be directed to a special phone. When you finish your call, go back to the counter and pay your bill with no surcharge.

Post offices in many countries offer similar services. You may also find special phone centers at railroad stations or airports.

AT&T has been installing special phones at airports and cruise docks both overseas and in the Caribbean. You will be put directly in touch with an English speaking operator. You will also be billed at the prevailing rate in the U.S., which is usually less than the local rate. I have used these phones at the airport in Jamaica, the cruise dock in Nassau, and the airport in Munich, Germany.

If you still must call from your room, make a quick call to the overseas party and have them call back.

'Bleacher Bums' scores a home run

Patience and eternal optimism are the backbone of never-say-die Cub fans.

These characteristics are amplified in hilarious detail in "Bleacher Bums," written by Joe Mantegna, Dennis Franz and others. The production, as directed by Larry Wyatt at Candlelight's Forum Theatre in Summit, scores a home run.

It's set in the friendly confines of Chicago's Wrigley Field and features a strong cast of colorful Cub loyalists. Among them are Vince Viverito, a bookie whose vision is clouded by his relentless support for the team; Ray Andrecheck, as Marvin, a professional gambler who likes to play the odds; Paul Zegler, as a long-suffering fan; and Lori Hammel, who turns out for the sun and the ambience.

Then there's cheerleader David Kreppel, who does a terrific job of spreading Cub Fever to the stands. James Nolan plays the perfect nerd.

Inning after inning, as the fans root for the home team, their enthusiasm becomes infectious.

"Bleacher Bums" was first successfully staged by Organic Theatre in 1977. The current version preserves the flavor of the original, although it has been updated with contemporary references, from Oprah to Planet Hollywood.

The comedy will run through Aug. 7. Ticket information is available by calling 496-3000.—by TOM WITOM

Four-week International Theatre spectacular unfolds

A four-week spectacular unfolds now through June 19 as the fifth International Theatre Festival of Chicago bows.

Ten productions, featuring artists from England, Ireland, Greece, Canada, the Netherlands, Mexico and the United States will be presented at the Wellington Theater, DePaul Univ.'s Merle Reskin Theatre, the Vic Theater and the new Navy Pier Park Pavilion Theater.

Here are some highlights: "Communicating Doors," Alan Ayckbourn's blend of science fiction, murder mystery and bedroom farce, will make its North American premier through June 5.

From Ireland comes "Juno and the Paycock," June 7 through 19. "Camel Gossip III," June 4 through 19, will combine actors, musicians, sculptors, bicycles, ironing boards and 20,000 liters of water to evoke the essence of a Nordic carnival.

"Needles and Opium," a Canadian import, is an elegy to lost love and a hypnotic exploration of the creative process; it runs June 1 through 5.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Knock kneed or knot?

It's hard to distinguish the wolves from the sheep these days. In the latest saga of sordid sexual harassment suits, we have the case of Paula Jones vs. President Clinton, or PJ vs. PC for those who prefer to abbreviate. Of course, in her allegations, he is the wolf and she is the poor little sheep led astray, but I think that story rates a closer look.

In case you're Rip Van Winkle and just woke up, here's the scoop according to PJ. Paula, a state employee, was at the Little Rock Excelsior Hotel for a gathering of business execs and government officials, working a table in the lobby handing out name tags. A state trooper came by her table to relay a message from Clinton: "The Governor said you make his knees knock." Now, I don't know about you, but I would have assumed I looked pretty scary and would have rushed to the ladies room to fix my makeup. I usually only make knees knock on Halloween. But hey, what do I know?

Anyway, the state trooper then returned to give Paula the hotel room number for Clinton's room, telling her that the Governor had asked that she stop up in a few minutes. Now Paula, bless her naive little heart, told a reporter that the invitation didn't worry her because "I was brought up to trust people.....you know, a Governor." Sure, that seems reasonable. Whenever a government official says that I make his knees knock and sends a state trooper over with a room number and an invitation, I feel secure in knowing he has nothing but ~~trust~~ trust on his mind.

The story continues like this: The state trooper led PJ to PC's room, and after some small talk about her job, he complimented her looks and made advances, which she then rejected. Of course, after that she didn't leave. Heck, neither would I. If someone made unwelcome advances toward me, it would seem only right that I stick around and find out if he's going to do it again. Just to be sure.

Here comes the zinger of the story. For his finale, Paula says, Clinton then sat down next to her wearing nothing more than his shirt and requested that she make his knees knock. Not in those words, of course. She left (finally!) and as she did, he reminded her to keep quiet, which she did, for three years.

Now that he's President, she wants to talk - to her lawyers, the news media, probably Geraldo and a book publisher too. She wants $700,000, which she claims she'll hand over to charity. As for the money from a book or movie deal, well, you know what they say. Charity begins at home.

Still, the question remains—did this ever happen? And did knees knock or not? I decided to ask a real sheep what he thought of the whole matter. His opinion is actually very close to mine. "Baaaaa!"

Cool off with lime pie

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

The heat has finally arrived. While we complained about the cool spring, we're now feeling a little hot under the collar. One of the best ways to cool off is with an ice cream treat.

Complements of Häagen-Dazs is the following recipe.

Real Cool Lime Pie

1 pint Häagen-Dazs Vanilla Ice Cream
6 ounce prepared graham cracker crumb pie crust
14 ounce can sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon freshly squeezed lime juice
1 teaspoon grated lime zest
1 cup heavy cream, whipped with 2 tablespoons sugar
Lime for garnish

Remove ice cream from paper carton by cutting package seam. Slice into rounds 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick. Arrange in petal from in pie crust. Press down to remove air pockets and smooth surface. Put in freezer. In a small bowl combine condensed milk, lime juice and lime zest. Refrigerate until cool and thickened. Spread lime mixture over ice cream layer and freeze at least 2 hours. When ready to serve, decorate top with whipped cream sweetened with sugar and garnish with lime slices.

Makes 6 to 8 servings

be delightful for an audience that is constantly on its toes in order to keep up with so much chaos. Real actors play actors who play actors who play a director and playwright that definitely reflect the characters of Eleanor and J.C.

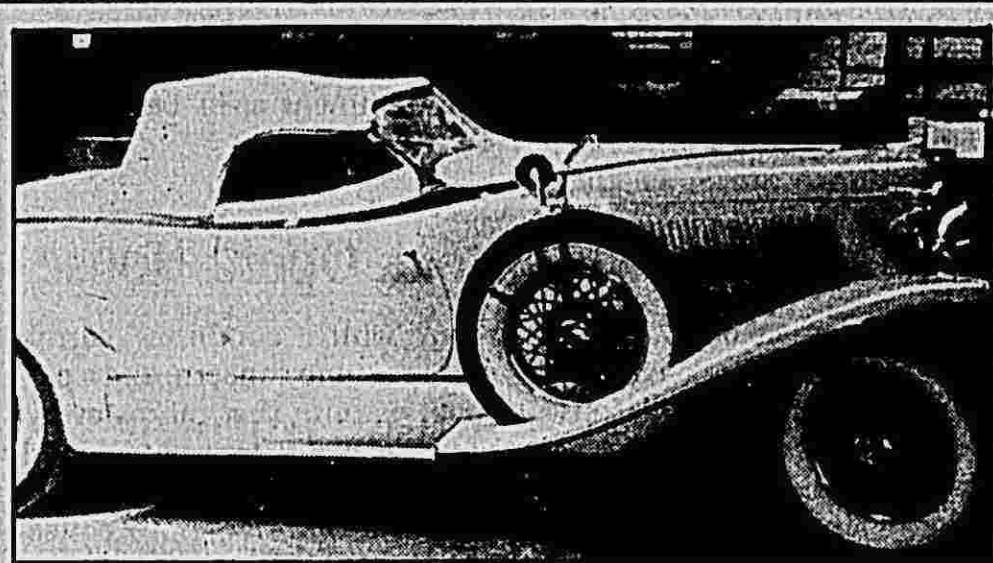

The cast does an excellent job at keeping the audience in the dark when intended, and an equally good job at turning the light of clarification on when the surprise finally reaches its climax. A scene will begin and the audience thinks it's the real characters arguing with each other, but it turns out to be a mere rehearsal as the actors as characters take a break. Ironically, however, the real characters repeat scenes they rehearse and begin to live the lines and actions they learned as actors. It's difficult as a reviewer to relate the confusion that "The Last Rehearsal" creates, but it's fun to figure out as an audience. There is even a bigger surprise in the play that will have to be kept secret for the enjoyment of those yet to see the production, and it is definitely worth the mayhem.

"The Last Rehearsal" will continue to run until June 12 with performances on Thursdays at 7:30 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays at 8:00, and Sunday matinees at 3:00. For more information and ticket reservation call 708/662-7088.

ALS group hosts birthday party

On June 3, 1932, baseball's immortal Lou Gehrig hit four consecutive home runs in a single game. Now 62 years later, a group of young men and women will gather Friday, June 3 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Kincaid's, 950 W. Armitage, Chicago, to raise funds seeking the cause and cure of ALS, the disease which took the life of the "Iron Horse." The Associate Board of the Les Turner ALS Foundation will host the party which will also honor and celebrate the June birthday of Hall of Famer Lou Gehrig. 'Entertainment III' has surprises

Lucille Ball before "I Love Lucy"

For all those nostalgic buffs - like this reviewer - who are still deeply in love with all the '40s, '50s, and '60s musicals, more numbers from some of MGM's greatest are to be enjoyed in "That's Entertainment III."

Added to this one are some out-takes never before seen on screen that are particularly exciting such as Judy Garland doing "I'm An Indian Too" before she dropped out of the film of "Annie Get Your Gun," and the part made a super star out of Betty Hutton.

To many, it was a surprise that some of our earlier musical stars were simply dancers, who could not sing. The biggest of these was Rita Hayworth who had all her songs dubbed by an unknown Mary Castle.

"Entertainment" shows how Joan Crawford and Cyd Charise suddenly became singers in "Torch Song," and "Band Wagon."

We are reminded how unreal some of these great musicals were when they featured a white-tuxedoed Frank Sinatra standing atop a tall white column singing "Old Man River."

Whether it's memories of the old Andy Hardy flicks, or the uncanny precision of Fred Astaire's dance steps, or the reminder that Lucille Ball once just stood and looked gorgeous in a fantastic costume during many a musical number (nary drawing a laugh) in many of MGM's spectaculars, "Entertainment" is full of warm nostalgia for us oldies. It also speaks to those too young to remember the great musicals, the likes of which will never be seen again, not only because of the tremendous cost, but because their time is past.

Just because we still like to think that musical dreams can come true, we give "Entertainment" four out of five stars.

We feel that was really entertainment at its best. —by GLORIA DAVIS

Tom Chapin at Woodstock Opera House

Singer/songwriter Tom Chapin will present two concerts at the Woodstock Opera House on Saturday, June 11. At 2 p.m. Chapin will present his popular and critically acclaimed children's show, and at 8 p.m. he will present an evening concert for all ages.

The secret of Chapin's success lies in that intangible element which combines earthiness, genuine concern, and a personal warmth that makes everyone feel like a treasured friend. This shines through in all of Chapin's concerts, from coffeehouses to major festivals.

Tickets for the show are $10 and available at the Woodstock Opera House box office or by calling (815)338-5300.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Couples will be sharing happy times together now, but in business, be careful that you are not taking something for granted. Stay on top of current assignments. Accomplishment is likely to fall short of expectations.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You will have a productive beginning to the week, but later, your efforts may slacken. Try not to get sidetracked by unimportant issues. Be determined and persistent. Romantic interests are highlighted and you will be making plans for a getaway.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Telling someone how much you care will mean a lot this week. You should avoid taking financial risks now and try not to overspend. A relative is extra sensitive now so be aware of this.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You may find extra work now that can be done from the home. However, don't be too eager to make a good impression. Just be yourself. A slight misunderstanding could arise with a family member over finances. Guard against needless expense.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You are usually careful about details but this week you could overlook something of importance. It will take extra patience and understanding to cope with a touchy co-worker's mood swings. Accent family this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You will have a good time socializing this week. However, you will have to take what one friend says with a grain of salt. Adhere to budgets now and guard against overspending. A slight misunderstanding could arise over finances.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You will hear some big talk in business this week and may waste your time with a person whose words don't amount to much. It's best now to catch up on a backlog of work. Watch which way the wind blows when dealing with a moody superior.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Visiting friends at a distance will soon be on your agenda. After some early socializing this week, you will want time for yourself to deal with some unfinished projects. A family member is supportive.

The Waterfalls, great dining and great times

For fine dining, great service, and a great time, The Waterfalls Restaurant is the place to go. Located on Route 173, west of Route 59, The Waterfalls features tremendous banquet facilities, a lively lounge, as well as a beautiful restaurant.

The restaurant presents a diverse and elegant menu at very affordable prices. Lunch at The Waterfalls includes appetizers, daily specials, salads, sandwiches, pasta dishes, main entrees, daily dessert, and finely blended specialty coffees.

Luncheons, available Tuesday through Sunday, offer an excellent selection. Start the meal off with baked French onion soup, served in a piping-hot crock with three different cheeses. Or, for the more adventurous, try the Saganaki. This flaming Greek cheese is served in a generous portion. The fried calamari is lightly breaded and deep fried to a crisp.

Sandwich lovers will go crazy for The Waterfalls steak sandwich. Sliced roast beef, served on a French roll, topped with sautéed onion, mushrooms, green peppers, mozzarella. Other favorites include the half pound burger, the double breast of chicken sandwich, the prime rib sandwich, and their Ruben Sandwich.

Pasta lovers are not overlooked at The Waterfalls. Pasta entrees include a choice of soup-of-the-day or a salad. Luncheon main entrees include beef, pork, seafood, and chicken selections. For a real treat, try the medallions of beef.

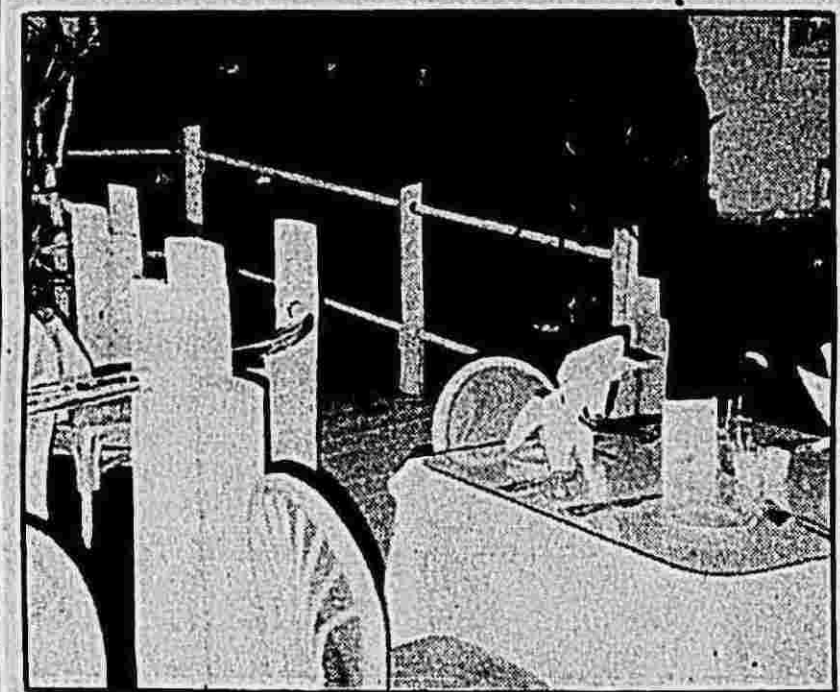

The dinner menu includes even more appetizers, more formal sandwiches, salads, pasta dishes, steaks and chops, poultry, and seafood. All entrees are served with soup or salad, choice of baked or potato gratin, rice pilaf or pasta, and a vegetable medley.

The dinner delights are just too numerous to mention, but several items deserve a special mention. Make sure to try the linguine provencal with sautéed shrimp and the Chef's hearty tomato sauce. The shrimp DeJonge is out-of-this-world, and the Grecian chicken is just delicious.

The Sunday brunch is just great for only $8.95, $5.95 for children. Also, Sunday features a new menu and new special prices for senior citizens.

After dinner, stop into the lounge for an after dinner drink. On the weekends, the lounge is really hopping! Friday and Saturday nights, the Waterfall's own DJ will play your favorite dance music. After your early dinner on Sunday, enjoy the big band sound from the '40s, '50s, and '60s, for your dancing pleasure.

For that special event in your life, call The Waterfalls. The banquet facilities are wonderful and several rooms are available. Call 395-2212 for reservations and information.

Great dining at The Backyard Steak Pit

Sit back and relax in the Western Style, candlelit, casual dining atmosphere of the Backyard Steak Pit. Whether it is steaks or seafood, Chef Scott Johnson will prepare your meal to order.

Topping the lineup is the onion loaf, which is sliced onions deep-fried into a block. The half loaf serves two to three people, while the full loaf serves four to six. Try Chef Scott's secret recipe, the baked potato chowder with bacon. It is out of this world.

"We specialize in steak and seafood," explains Scott. "We also have drink specials throughout the week."

All of their steaks are grilled on an authentic charcoal briquette grill. They hand cut top choice of prime beef daily to assure freshness and quality. Steak dinners start at $10.95 and diners have a choice of Sirloin, Filet Mignon, New York Strip, T-bone, or Ribeye. Dinners include baked potato, salad bar, Texas or garlic toast. For a romantic evening, try the steak dinner for two.

Seafood lovers will be in paradise. The 10-ounce cold water lobster tail served with drawn butter is fresh from ship-to-shore, to you. The filet of cod fish is a loin cut steamed and also served with drawn butter. The menu includes red salmon filet, mahi mahi, and breaded shrimp.

Other treats on the menu include the corral combos. Combinations of lobster and steak, shrimp and steak, ribs and chicken, or ribs and steak. For lighter fare, try one of the grub on a slab sandwiches served with French fries, dill pickle spear, and cole slaw. Priced from $4.95 to $5.95, the sandwiches are a real deal.

The Backyard Steak Pit has banquet facilities available for parties up to 70 people. Packages are available. The restaurant is open Monday through Thursday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. On Fridays and Saturdays, from 4 to 11 p.m., and on Sundays from 1 to 9 p.m.. It is located on 1818 N. Create a mood in the garden with colors

Everyone likes a bright, colorful garden. But did you know that you can create a mood or even create an illusion of change in the garden by using certain colors?

Red and yellow are colors that command attention. Our eyes are drawn to reds and yellows and so are excellent choices to plant in key areas that you want people to see. On the other hand, if you have something in your garden that you don't want someone to look at, plant bright yellow flowers opposite the area to draw attention away from there.

If there are steps or walkways in your garden, borders of yellow flowers will catch people's eyes and alert them in an attractive way. Color experts even say that houses may sell faster if it has yellow trim or borders of yellow flowers out front.

Red can have several effects. Bright red flowers planted at the end of a long, narrow property will visually "pull" the end in closer and it won't seem so long. Studies have also shown that food tastes better around red, so red flowers around outdoor eating areas will help stimulate conversation and make the food taste better too.

In a full sun garden consider red blooms of petunia, celosia, salvia or wax begonia. Yellow is most often found in marigolds, but a great deal of interest is being paid to dwarf sunflowers such as "Sunspot," "Sunrich Orange" and "Sunbeam."

If red and yellow help to excite and draw attention, blue is the color we perceive as being cool and calm. By planting lots of blue flowers you can create a feeling of coolness even in a full-sun garden. Lighter blues are better than dark blues. Those 95 degree days will just feel cooler in a garden with blue flowers.

Blue tones can help widen or lengthen the look of a garden because blue recedes or falls back. Lots of blue flowers planted along the sides of a long, narrow garden will make it seem wider because blue "falls back" visually.

Because blue is the first color to fade from sight as night falls, you may want to incorporate light colors into a blue border if there are areas you like to look at in the evening. Blue tones are found in petunias, blue salvia, lisanthus, ageratum and lobelia.

If you are a very neat, tidy, precise person, then white is the color for you. Crisp flower beds of white will give your garden a well-planned look. Masses of white can be hard on the eyes though, so you may want to incorporate other colors as well. White is also the last color to fade as night falls. Annuals that deliver good white blooms include petunia, vinca, nicotiana, alyssum and impatiens.

Green is a good compliment to white because it actually helps your eyes recover from the strain of bright white. Engravers doing detailed work often kept a green gemstone handy so they could look at it to relieve their eye strain.

What if your taste runs toward lots of different colors? That's great! Just don't over do it. Mixed colors add a festive touch. But too much mixing can be more disorganized than festive. For a limited but festive look, a marigold mixture can display the four colors of yellow, orange, gold and maroon. Also, using three or four colors over and over can help tie everything together.

If you haven't thought about the psychological effects of color before, these tips may give you some ideas for not only creating a "look" but also the "feel" you want.

Frequent invasions of weeds signals lawn problems

Dandelions were a very visible weed over the past few weeks on area lawns. Even the best cared-for lawns may develop weeds from time to time. However, frequent invasions of weeds into lawns are a signal that something is wrong with growing conditions for that lawn.

These problems could be the general growing conditions, lawn management practices, or a combination of both. While selecting and applying the proper herbicide may take care of the weed population, an important second step should be an analysis of the site to determine what factors have contributed to the weed invasion.

For example, crabgrass likes an open turf and plenty of moisture. Many lawns are mowed too closely, which has thinned the grass, and receive frequent light watering. Dandelions and many other broadleaf weeds also are common on lawns mowed too close.

There are other common reasons for thin lawns that have allowed weeds to invade, such as low fertility, soil compaction, or general poor soil conditions. Sound establishment procedures, fertility practices, mowing, watering, and thatch control are all important not only for the appearance of the grass but also to keep weed problems to a minimum.

Mangels of Long Grove, 421 Robert Parker Coffin Rd., Long Grove, is offering a class on creating a water garden, one of the fastest growing trends in the gardening world.

The course will be conducted by S. Greg Spelchert, owner of Crystal Palace Perennial, on Saturday, June 11, beginning with an 8:30 a.m. continental breakfast at the nearby Seasons of Long Grove Restaurant, and ending at 11:30 a.m. after participants have actually constructed a small garden.

Spelchert, who started his business in 1989, has one of the most comprehensive collections of water plants in the country, along with a large selection of potted marginal plants, including water lilies and lotus. He also grows bamboo, ornamental grasses, native woodland plants and rare perennials.

The class will start with a slide presentation, and general discussion of water gardening principles, followed by a hands-on session of planting a bog garden.

The $35 fee includes the morning program and the cost of all materials. If luncheon at Seasons is added, the price is $5 all-inclusive. For more information, or to make reservations, phone Mangels at 634-9287.

More goodies for shade gardens

Disporum sessile "Variegatum," variegated Japanese fairy-bells, are woodland plants that have creeping rootstocks and perform best in dry, well-drained, humus-rich soil. The leaves are edged with white and the flowers are white, one inch across and are usually solitary or in groups of two or three. This is a Zone 4 plant.

A nice companion for the fairy-bells is the Trillium grandiflorum, snow trillium. The plant height is 12 to 18 inches with the flowers being a waxy-white fading to pink. However, this plant likes to be kept consistently moist, so try to plant your fairy-bells on the top of an earthen berm and your snow trillium in the lower areas of your garden.

Not to slight the hostas, some nice companion plants in this genus are Hosta sieboldiana, siebold Plantainlily. Its cultivar is "Frances Williams" and Hosta "Krossa Regal," Krossa Regal Plantainlily. With their differences in leaf blades, flower colors and textures, these plants can easily brighten up one's dark corners of the garden. Once again, these plants prefer moist soils for optimum growth.

A nice pink blooming early summer perennial is the Polygonum bistorta "Superbum," European Bistort. The basal leaves do resemble large paddles and may bloom again in late summer. The flowers are in clusters six inches long. This will grow nicely into a mass planting area.

Finally, the Polygonatum odoratum var. thunbergii, variegated Solomon's-Seal, can stand alone in a shade garden, preferably in a cluster, and draw attention. Solomon's-Seal can achieve 3 foot 6 inch height. It has a white flower, two in a cluster, one inch long. It will tolerate drier soils in full shade. "Variegatum" is smaller, with white topped, whited edge leaves and really shows off when surrounded by green leaved plants. This should be in everyone's shade garden. —by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect/owner of Mill Creek Nursery, Wadsworth

Well-groomed hedge can be a real garden feature

If you could erect a hedge as quickly as a fence, then there would probably be little call for the latter.

A well-groomed hedge can be a real feature in the garden and much easier to maintain—apart from the occasional clipping, you can leave them to their own devices.

Unfortunately, they can take a long time to establish and there seems to be a kind of "sod's law" for gardeners that says the nicer the variety, the harder it is to grow.

However, if you are fed up with rebuilding the panels after a strong wind or digging out rotten fence posts, the idea of a hedge may be appealing, either as a boundary or a garden feature.

And now is the time to start. Apart from latitude, you also need to consider site, soil, cost and how much clipping and care is required for your chosen hedge variety.

If the hedge is also going to be a boundary, you may be particularly keen to have something tall and sturdy, or even one which is prickly enough to deter intruders or keep animals on or off your land.

Prepare the site carefully—it's for life—and allow at least two feet of growing space within your boundary.

Double-dig the site and add plenty of well-rotted organic compost to ensure a strong and long-lived hedge.

Conifers are by far the most popular type because they are not only handsome but also fast growing, particularly in the case of the sturdy hybrid Leyland Cypress. This can put on two feet a year and create a thick hedge within a few years.

Unfortunately, while they are soaring skywards, they do not put down strong roots so they will need staking for the first two years.

The Yew is more traditional and takes longer to establish. It is a handsome variety when grown as a tall hedge. You could also consider the following varieties:

Box—slow growing and makes an excellent hedge. Great for trimming geometric gardens and borders, but it is expensive.

Holly—Produces scented flowers and berries and is inexpensive and easy to grow. Looks bare and boring during the winter after shedding its leaves.

Beech—Not the most inexpensive choice, but it is beautiful and can be trimmed to keep its leaves through the winter months.

Honeysuckle—Certain varieties make cheap, medium-heights hedges and give off a lovely scent.

Privet—Very inexpensive and fast growing. However, it takes regular clipping to be kept neat and tidy.

Carrots are a big favorite. Bright-orange carrots with their clean, smooth skin and perfect long tapers are common sights in the grocery store. They're nice enough, but often lack what's most important, a sweet flavor, the kind that's found only in homegrown carrots.

The ones sold in supermarkets are chosen for uniformity, good storage, disease resistance, and other factors that make growing and handling easier. But in home gardens, these things aren't as critical, so seed companies can concentrate on delivering flavor, a sweet, full flavor that makes carrots bought at the grocery store seem bland by comparison.

Your success with carrots really starts when you buy the seeds. Yet, choosing the right carrot isn't always as simple as it seems. A sweet sounding selection described in a catalog may or may not produce a carrot that suits your taste.

It's best to try several selections and then decide.

The best suited for heavy soils are short and ball-shaped types. Because they don't grow too deeply into the soil, they adapt well to clay soils. After deciding which types to plant, label them carefully so you can identify them at the end of the season.

Carrots will grow in spring, but fall's cool weather improves their flavor. You can plant seeds now for a fall harvest; in spring, sow seeds about six weeks before the last frost.

Treat the tiny seeds tenderly. The trick is to plant the fragile seeds deep enough so that they won't dry out, yet shallow enough so they can easily break through the soil. Water daily to keep the seedbed moist; if the seeds dry out even once, they won't come up.

Carrot seeds germinate slowly and sporadically, but all should sprout within three weeks. If you don't see any signs of the seedlings by then, sow again.

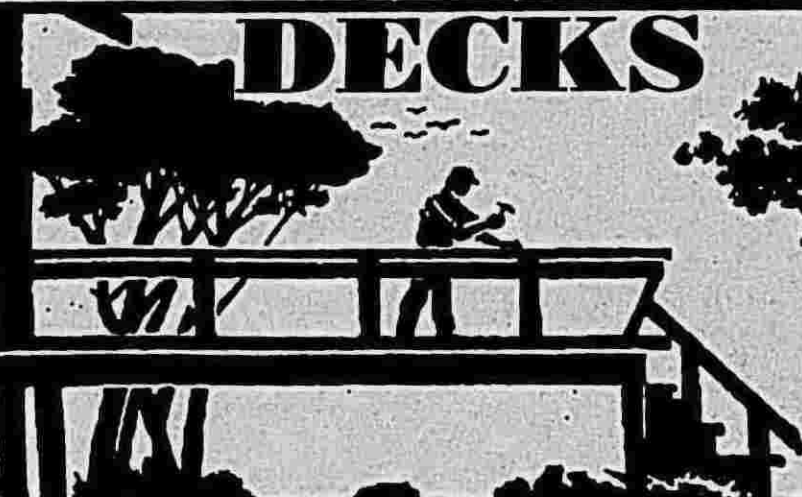

It's time to thin the seedlings when they are about an inch tall. It's less distributing to their roots if you simply cut off extras at the soil line with small scissors.

You can harvest carrots at any size big enough to eat, but mature roots are the sweetest. Young carrots haven't stored enough sugar in their roots to give them a good flavor; in fact, some may even taste blitter.

For garden accent, try ornamental grasses

Quite a few perennial members of the grass family are exceptional choices for the home garden. What comes to mind quickly of course are the grasses used for the home lawn. Bluegrass, fescue and rye are familiar names. But what about names like zebra grass, ribbon grass, or feather reed grass. These grasses are part of a large group of grasses used for ornamental purposes. Their leaf color, texture, and attractive flowers and seed heads lend themselves to any number of landscape possibilities.

For an innovative addition to your garden, consider the grace and beauty of ornamental grasses. Their narrow leaves with parallel veining are often topped by handsome flower heads.

Grasses are reliable and have year-round appeal. They also provide for a fast impact and reach mature size quickly. The ornamental grasses are a diverse group offering plants that grow from six inches to over 10 feet tall. Because of this, there is a grass for practically every situation in the garden.

Grasses perform well in the border, as edging or a background plant in flower beds and complement other perennial plants in the garden. Many of the smaller species make excellent additions to a rock garden. For example, mosquito grass, side oats grama, and the fescue species are excellent choices for lighter, better drained soils. Tall grasses such as Japanese silver grass, switchgrass, and big bluestem form excellent specimen plantings or screens.

Some grasses such as ribbon grass and giant blue wild ryegrass are excellent groundcovers and may be used to help stabilize banks. Blue fescue forms a fine, blue mound and will benefit from the addition of ample organic matter to the soil as well as good drainage.

Ornamental grasses perform their best in full sun locations. Some exceptions to the full sun rule are oat grass and variegated Japanese sedge which will grow in full shade.

Ornamental grasses can be obtained as seed, bare root plants or containerized plants. Most major mail-order seedhouses now carry an interesting selection of grasses from seed. Several local nurseries and garden centers handle an ever increasing selection of plants.

If you are unfamiliar with ornamental grasses, visiting park districts and botanic gardens prior to purchasing and planting should give you a better insight into the variety available. A number of these public gardens are using more ornamental grass for its impact as well as its relative ease of maintenance.

Ornamental grasses are quite resistant to insects and diseases and require minimum fertility. Spring fertilization amounts to about one-quarter cup of fertilizer per plant for large specimens.

Ornamental grasses are also quite tolerant of dry conditions once established.

Grasses do not need to be cut back before winter. In fact, they are more attractive if the foliage is left standing. In early spring, the dead foliage is cut back prior to any spring growth. Grasses enjoy being divided every three to four years. This helps to reduce crowding, encourage better plant health and prevent center die-out. Spring is the best time to do this.

Besides having attractive foliage, many ornamental grasses have flowers that are excellent for use in dried arrangements. Regardless of the location in the garden, here are ornamental grasses to consider and their characteristics: Feather reed grass—four to six feet with feathery brown flower heads in July fading to gray. Upright growth habit. Plum grass—eight to 15 feet tall. Spectacular plant with showy 12 to 20 inch silver-white flower heads. Considered a good substitute for non-hardy Pampas Grass. Blue oat grass—two to three feet tall. Striking blue-gray evergreen clump with flowers in June.

Maiden grass—four to five feet tall. Outstanding ornamental grass with upright-arching, fine textured leaves. Showy flowers in October. Moor grass—18 to 24 inches tall. Attractive yellow and green striped leaves form tufted clumps that have a striking foliage effect. Purplish flowers in June.

Lipservice is a phone-in column presented as a feature of Lakeland Newspapers. Lakeland Newspapers makes no claim to the authenticity of the statements. Lakeland Newspapers does not claim the content or the subject matter as fact, but as the personal opinion of the caller. Suspended secretaries

My son is a student from Round Lake High School. He told me that the reason the secretaries were suspended is because they tried to involve the student council in their union activities. I support their suspension. In fact, I think they should have been fired.

A bird in the hand...

This is in response to the Round Lake School secretaries. It sounds like they just refused a 2 percent raise. Could it be that they want more than 2 percent? Come on, how many people do you know that have received big raises or not lost their jobs in the last five years. How could District 114 afford this on the backs of the taxpayers, or by cutting more programs for our kids? The school board is doing the right thing. After all, 2 percent is better than nothing.

Getting more ink

My subscription is due, and I'm not paying it unless I see my Lipservice. I have called in three times. I said 'those who voted for the school referendum should take the extra tax dollars they would have had to pay and donate it to the schools. Are you going to print it this time?' Editorial note: This call was printed within the last month. Rather than make it an issue, here it is again. We can assume then, as they say, that the check is in the mail?

Guilty as charged

This is from the Wauconda woman's fan club in response to 'strong words'. If this Wauconda man was not harassing this woman, why did he plead guilty? Is he a gutless slimeball?

Motorcycle safety

This is in response to the message a week or so ago regarding motorcycle helmets and motorcycle safety. Northern Illinois University uses the facilities of College of Lake County to offer a motorcycle safety course. Call NIU at 1-800-892-9607 for information and registration.

Seedlings abducted

Today is May 5. I would like to address the scumbag who stole the seedlings off the table in my front yard. Those were the projects that my 5-year-old Girl Scouts were working on. They used their own money to send away to Canada for those seedlings. I hope your garden rots and dies and I hope the same thing happens to you. How could you steal plants from children? You even took the pans and the stones.

There oughta be a law

This is for the person who said no to the helmet law. I was in California and I was wearing my helmet—thank God—when I got hit while riding my motorcycle. If I had not been wearing that helmet, I would be dead. Instead, I got a very sore butt. I've always believed in helmets and it is a good thing. It is the reason I am alive today.

Good job, Gordy

This is for Gordy Klesgen. Gordy has done a wonderful thing for Fox Lake. And for those people who don't understand the food drive, and all the time and effort he has put into Fox Lake, then they should re-evaluate the situation. He is a good man.

Country livin'

I'm calling in regards to the trees that the village cut down last year by the Creek next to Swan Drive. Whoever ordered the trees cut down should come and have coffee on my patio some morning about 8 o'clock and listen to all the beautiful song birds that make their home along that creek. Thank God the man next to us stopped the cutting or all I would hear are the sounds of the construction vehicles, which I can hear anyway over the sounds of the birds. That creek is the only wildlife refuge for the birds in this area. I put food out for them. This was once the country, then everybody from the city moved out here. There are houses along Route 83 where I used to ride my horses all the way to Lake Villa and all the way to Gurnee. I'm going to try and protect my property along that creek where I used to catch huge gold carp.

Sirens are no emergency

I'm calling from Lake Villa in response to the 'Sirens needed' letter to the editor May 6. There are much better things to spend money on than storm warning sirens. If the troop leader was so concerned about a tornado, she should have walked the 50 feet to her car or called one of the many 976-WEATHER numbers available. Wake up and smell the coffee, lady. It is time to take some personal responsibility. The government is not here to hold your hand at the expense of other tax payers.

Grow up

This is our first warning. Don't you have anything better to do than to criticize people in the newspaper? Leave us alone. We don't care about a camcorder. You better stop harassing us at Grant High School. Don't act like a baby. Grow up.

Powerful trustees

This is for the person in Round Lake Heights that is concerned about the waste of money with the trustees driving around with the police officers. If they knew the law, they would know that all trustees are conservators of the peace. They have the same power as a police officer. Furthermore, to the person who was complaining about the village stickers: They were not the same stickers that were due in June. They were the stickers that were due last year.

No God involved

I'm calling from Lake Zurich. This is regarding the caller who commented that Earth Day is a Satanic ritual that teaches children that God will not take care of them. Earth Day has nothing to do with God. It teaches children what to do with our environment. Because of what man has done, it is slowly decaying. If we don't show more common sense on how to take care of the environment, then we will not be able to live to enjoy the planet.

Tax of a different color

Once again, as our real estate tax bills arrive, we notice an increase of $100 plus. Do you wonder why school referendums get rejected? It is time that everybody sent the message to their legislators to fund their schools in a more equitable way. Increase the sales tax so everybody pays a fair share for schools. Also, increase the state tax slightly. We all want good schools but do it so everybody pays fairly, not just the homeowners.

Antioch political machine

In response to the $12.50 that each employee is paid for sitting in a recycling bin, why do we need two people to sit there? Can't one do that job efficiently? Secondly, I'm sure there are many groups who are environmentally friendly who would encourage a greater recycling program in Antioch Township. Thirdly, Trustee Kufalk commented that $12.50 an hour is not a lot of money and that people who earn less than this will not show up to work. He would not be saying this if the $25.00 per hour were coming out of his pocket. Isn't it curious that these people receiving this money just happen to be his children? That is Antioch politics at its finest.

Wayne's invisible world

I'm calling about that invisible school board member from Antioch, Wayne Sobczak. I've been to many of the school board meetings since he was elected and have only seen him at one of the meetings. I'm just curious if he is so involved in too many things that he has spread himself too thin. Hopefully, he does not run his business the same way he treats the people who elected him into office. He's really a disappointment to us.

Editorial note: While it is true that Mr. Sobczak was in Washington during last month's board meeting, he has been spotted by Lakeland Newspaper reporters at several special board meetings.

Schools' pot 'o gold

I'd like to give my 2 cents, or should I say my $2,000. I'd like to know where all of the money we are paying for the schools in our taxes is going to. I have a house that is valued at $125,000 and I pay $2,000 a year just toward the school district. You don't have to be an Albert Einstein to add up all the houses in Grayslake and figure out how much money is going to the school district. Some people are paying more than I am. There is something wrong here. Let's do something about it.

Smoking is their job

What's going at our post office? If you really want to see some hard workers, and the reason why our postal rates keep going up, just look behind the post office during the early morning hours. I have had to park behind the post office—because all of the workers are parked in the customer area—only to find that half of them are on the dock smoking a cigarette. Go any time in the morning from 4 a.m. to 10 a.m. I joked with one of them and she said she was on break. I go there all the time and she is always out there. Either she has a lot of breaks or she never works.

Perhaps you people should smoke on your own time instead of on ours. I really think Grayslake should do more for their people than to just sit out on the dock and smoke cigarettes.

Use the sidewalk

This is in regards to 'No place to walk' about the sidewalk on Route 83. You must be blind. It has been there for over a year. The kids won't even use the sidewalks anyway. They cut through neighbors' lawns. I wish they would use the sidewalks too.

Managing waste

Village of Lake Villa, yes, I am happy with our new garbage people. The can and the recycling bin are left exactly where I put them when they are emptied. They come early and I don't hear them. The clean-up was free. Your town and your village can coordinate it and they can give you advance notice. Lake Villa did not just approve Waste Management. It was a combined deal with Lake Villa Township because it went out for bid. Also, thank you, Waste Management.

Choked on tax bill

So what happened? I thought when the referendum was not passed that our property assessments were going down. Then why did my assessed value go up $64,000. That is ridiculous. The schools are really going to make a killing on that. Each school went up $400 a place on my tax bill. Editorial note: Any problems with your tax bills in Antioch should be referred to Cliff Houghton at the tax assessor's office at 395-1545.

Branding sin

I checked in two reference books, but I could not find anything saying that Earth Day is connected to atheism, socialism, or satanism. I think the caller is brainwashed by some religious order that tries to brand everything as a sin even when it isn't.

Library blues

I am from Grayslake. I'm wondering why we don't hear anything about the new library since we approved the bonds. Is it true that the hang-up is over 42 parking spaces? Are we going to deprive our children and community of a much-needed building over parking spaces? Come on guys, grow up.

Editorial note: Without going into too much detail, the stumbling block is apparently over 46 parking spaces. See page one of this week's Grayslake Times for more details.

Cave of misinformation

This is in regard to 'Bad management'. How long have you been in that cave? Round Lake District 116 is not on the bottom of the list. Haven't you heard that we are the best kept secret in Lake County. The buses are not going to be taken away if the contract fails. The district is not selling its buses. No student in Round Lake ever goes without books like you stated. As far as the 40-cent bus fee, who have you been talking to? No child has ever been required to pay if they qualify to be transported. The reason no one voted on this is because it doesn't exist. Send all of our kids to Grayslake and Antioch? Read the papers. Antioch fired all their bus drivers and sold their buses. Grayslake isn't much better. I'm just hoping to straighten out this poor, misinformed soul. I'm from Round Lake Beach.

Board works for us

After voting for the Antioch High School referendum every time it was proposed, I finally decided to vote against it. Why? Because after firing our bus drivers and maybe our lunch room workers and custodians, I can see that the school board is not attentive to school needs. Why wasn't the bus driver decision put to a referendum? I feel that the school board is employed by the taxpayers. Why don't they represent us? I will remember every board member's name who voted on this issue and do my best to make sure they are not re-elected.

Good job, board

The Village of Round Lake Beach's trustees deserve a congratulations for the way they handled themselves in hiring a new police chief, particularly for those who voted against him because of residency. I want to thank the men and women for acting maturely and making the residents proud of their actions.

Bikes or cars

This is in response to the 'Control your kids' person in Antioch who said kids ride bikes on the lawns. You can't build an arcade in Antioch which was defeated, but you can build a hundred more bars. Which would you rather have, kids in arcades or a bunch of drunks driving over your lawn with their cars.

Recycling facts

I have a rebuttal to the 'Recycling does pay'. I'd like it to read 'Recycling rubbish'. To the person who has positive proof, I'd like them to get the correct facts. A recycler works on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., not from 8 a.m. to noon. There is only one person who works on recycling on Saturday, not two. That person is paid $44, not $100. They work rain or shine and they do not sit in their car because of bad weather. They have to continually make room for more recyclables.

Bad act

Let's get the act together. Mundelein High School had 'You can't take it with you' April 29-30. Libertyville High School had their play April 29-30. My wife and I enjoy going to both of these programs, but could not attend them when scheduled on the same weekend. If they could have coordinated their schedules a little better, everyone would be happier. We only saw one of the plays and enjoyed it. We would have enjoyed seeing both of them even more.

There goes the neighborhood

I used to live in the Round Lake and the Heights area for 7 years until we could see the neighborhood starting to change. I'm still receiving Lakeland Newspapers and I look in the police beat and see all the problems the police are now having with the ethnic population that has moved into the area and my heart goes out to the people who are still living in that community. It used to be a nice area to live in and now the gangs are there.

Safe bus drivers

Re-negotiate with school bus drivers. Do not let Laidlaw transport our children. The Antioch drivers are dedicated people and we know our children are safe with them.

Team before tryouts

Gurnee boy's baseball is at it again. For another year in a row, their traveling team and their tournament team was picked long before tryouts. The president of the league should look around before he opens his mouth in public.

The rich get richer...

This is regarding Round Lake Area Schools. I hope I have my facts and figures right. Mary Davis is guaranteed a 5 percent raise in July of 1994. The administrators just received in March a 5 percent retroactive raise. The teachers were told to figure out how to get their money on their own. The secretaries were given a real nice 2 percent raise after not having a raise for three years. We're not really sure what the assistants are doing, but the bus drivers get fired. It sure makes you wonder what is going on in Round Lake. That's a great set of board members you people have.

Setting the record straight

I'm calling from Antioch. This call is in response to the call made last week about recycling. It is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and there is only one person there supervising, not two. The job requires more than just saying, 'Dump the cans in the truck'. Someone needs to be there at all times to make sure improper products are not thrown into the bins or else the recyclables become contaminated. The workers crawl into the bins when necessary to pull improper items out. They are also outside helping people lift their recyclable into the truck, many times in windy and cold weather.

I feel these workers deserve their pay because I think they are doing a fine job for the community. I know for a fact that having a volunteer recycling location does not work. Many times, volunteers have to cancel at the last minute and this causes a problem for the recycling center. Paying workers insures that we continue having a dependable program for all of those who don't have a curbside recycling program. Thanks, workers for doing a great job.

Something worth reading

I'm from Wauconda area. How do you stop getting junk mail for people who have been dead for two or three years. Also, I really like the new sectionalized newspaper for Lakeland Newspapers. At first I didn't, but now I do. It is so much easier to lay the other sections down and go from section to section.

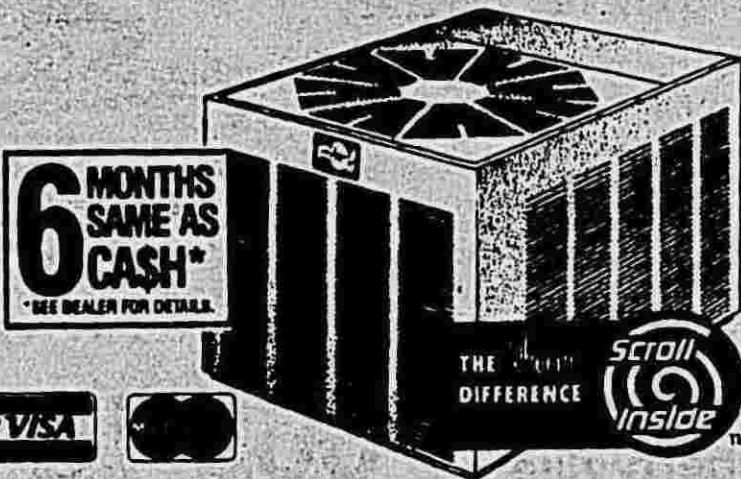

Breakout

I calling regarding this concentration camp in Fox Lake known as Vacation Village. I am a handicapped person, and I have been after them to make it handicapped accessible and have handicapped parking for many weeks now. They refuse to do so. All they want to do is fine us for stupid things. I'm sorry I live in this village and I will never live here again if I happen to move out.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Change: capsize or capitalize

BUFFALO GROVE—This breakfast seminar, co-sponsored by the Residential Construction Employers Council and the Home Builders Association of Lake County, will be held on Tuesday, June 7 at the Hilton Garden Inn, 900 W. Lake Cook Rd. in Buffalo Grove from 7:30 a.m. to noon. Registration is at 7:15 a.m. Topics of discussion include: eight ways to manage change...to assure results; how to "change" in our lives (personal, career, industry), impact our paradigms, performance and profitability; how an unconscious evaluation of our life's experiences, successes or failures, becomes a powerful influence of future performance; how being a positive/pro-active thinker enhances results; the value of others who are "outside" your paradigm; goal achievement—a seven step plan for profitability; and the eight challenges of change—convert awareness to action. The speaker, Jeff Blackman, J.D., CSP, is an international certified speaking professional, broadcast personality, author and lawyer. Blackman heads Blackman & Associates, Inc., a creative communications firm in the Chicagoland area, specializing in the strength and impact of the spoken and written word. For fee information and/or to register, call RCEC at 990-3536 or HBALC at 816-4663.

RE/MAX honors associates

ORLANDO, FLA.—Thirty-eight sales associates from RE/MAX of Northern Illinois were among those given special recognition by RE/MAX International, Inc., at its annual international convention in Orlando, Fla. Affiliates from the north suburban area inducted into the Hall of Fame at the 1994 convention included: Larry Fales, RE/MAX Advantage Realty in Antioch; Terri Murphy, RE/MAX Suburban in Libertyville; and Sandra Pope, RE/MAX Suburban in Libertyville. Since the Hall of Fame award was first introduced in 1986, 145 RE/MAX of Northern Illinois sales associates have received the honor. RE/MAX of Northern Illinois has led the Chicago metropolitan residential real estate market each year since 1989 in closed sales volume. With a network of more than 2,200 sales associates in 118 offices, RE/MAX of Northern Illinois is the second largest RE/MAX region in the United States. It is part of RE/MAX International, Inc., which has more than 37,000 sales associates operating from more than 2,200 offices.

Pool, spa opening

WAUKEGAN—KJS Pool and Spa, Inc. announces the opening of its second retail location in the BayRidge Court Shopping Center, 430 N. Green Bay Rd., Waukegan. Gail Khayat, president of KJS says the continued success of their Kenosha, Wis. store, after fifteen years of operation, leads them to believe that their expertise can easily be transferred to the new location. According to Khayat, the recent departure of Waukegan's only professional swimming pool store has left many pool owners with no convenient place to supply their needs.

Sterling Finish offers auto body repair training

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

It was like a mini-college auditorium with an overhead screen and television monitors for demonstration videos, and, of course, there was the instructor directing class. Students sat in padded seats, and dinner was served during break.

The only thing that didn't fit the college-scene scenario was the location—Sterling Finish Auto Body in Grayslake.

That's right, a body shop. This state-of-the-art facility is where auto body classes are going to be held for the next 15 weeks. More than 80 auto body technicians, insurance agents and rental car representatives were in attendance for the first class May 17.

"Professionalism is training that is continued," said Jim Gersema, a specialist and instructor with Inter-Industry Conference on Auto Collision Repair.

And professionalism with up-to-date education is what the auto repair industry is striving for now and in the future.

I-CAR was established in 1979 as an international educational organization dedicated to improving the quality, safety and efficiency of auto collision repair.

The organization was established when car manufacturers began building more specialized cars that required to be repaired to pre-accident condition. Before the 1980s, cars were not necessarily repaired to their pre-accident status.

The seven other topics include measuring principles, straightening systems, welding repair, replacing structural parts, corrosion protection, steering and suspension alignment, and working with mechanical and electrical parts.

"This is something totally new in this industry," said Gordon Bockwinkel, co-owner of Sterling Finish.

The days of the rubber hammer are over as these trained

Jim Gersema, a specialist with Inter-Industry Conference and Auto Collision Repair, answers questions during a lecture at Sterling Finish Auto Body in Grayslake. The first in a series of fifteen lectures, Gersema spoke to 80 people from the auto repair and insurance industries regarding state-of-the-art techniques in vehicle repair.—Photo by Kevin Hanrahan Annuities—last of great guarantees!

Annuities are a great way of providing continuing income for you and your family. There are basically three different types of annuities, Single Premium Deferred Annuities (SPDA), Single Premium Immediate Annuities (SPIA) and Deferred Annuities.

Single premium deferred annuity—A SPDA works by directing a single lump sum payment and deferring income to a later date, usually retirement when you will be in a different tax bracket. The money will earn interest on a tax deferred basis until you elect payment.

Single premium immediate annuity—A SPIA is depositing a single lump sum payment and receiving a continuous level income back immediately on a monthly or annual basis for the rest of your life or designated period of time.

Deferred annuity—A deferred annuity can be used by anyone who wishes to put money away over a period of time as a savings vehicle. It does not require a lump sum payment and the money will earn interest on a tax deferred basis until you elect payment.

Qualified money is funds you receive prior to retirement from a pension or retirement program, usually employer sponsored. This is done to defer taxes to retirement. Non-qualified money is personal funds already taxed which you are saving on an individual basis.

Most of the annuities can be set up so that should you die prior to receiving all the income payments, the balance of the principal will be paid to your designated beneficiary. A quality annuity is most important. It should provide guarantee of principal and the company providing the annuity should be most highly rated by A.M. Best, Standard & Poor's, Moody's and Duff & Phelps rating services.

Annuities have provisions for partial withdrawals for a maximum of 10 percent without suffering surrender charges. A bail-out feature is important should interest rates fall below a certain guaranteed rate. You should check these provisions with your advisor to see what best fits your financial plans. —Nick Brown

There's a store in town that's bigger and better than ever.

Acorn Auto and Marine Supply went to new heights when it moved down the street to a location with a larger display area, and easy access.

Owner Larry Mosley explained how he's been able to have a successful business in Fox Lake for the past four years, and previous businesses in Rosemont, Chicago and Nashville, Tennessee. "My goal is to make people feel comfortable when they come in here," said Mosley looking at the new movie theater popcorn machine that churns out complimentary bags of white fluffy corn.

An electric blue background and neon lighting draws you into the new 5,000 square foot store that was once the old East Five and Dime located at 7 East Grand Ave.

Rows of perfectly-shelved auto repair and car-care products line the store's main floor as well as tiers of boat parts to tune up your vessel including marine batteries and other items.

"This is an old-fashioned auto parts store," explained Manager Steve Krabetz. Mosley's wife Bonnie also works at the store.

Mosley said, "Our main objectives are quality, service, price and convenience." The owner said he would very much like to thank all of the wonderful customers he has had come to the Fox Lake store. "We sincerely appreciate the devotion of every one of our customers," said Mosley.

The owner had some commendations for the village he and his family moved to from the Chicago.

MURPHY ON REAL ESTATE

Terri Murphy

Making real estate terms more understandable

Real estate affects us all. Everyone needs shelter, a place to rest and to house their assorted stuff. Terms and verbiage used in real estate are not often clear to the public. For example, what is fair market value, anyway? Who are the final decision makers that determine what a property is actually worth? What is the difference between a comparative market analysis and a fee appraisal?

These are a few of the questions that I am often asked that can be cleared up for a better understanding of the often complex world of real estate.

The realtor does a study often referred to as a competitive market analysis (CMA). This report educates the buyer or seller as to the market value range of a property compared to others that are similar in size, style and area. This study can be prepared accurately when there is a consistency of similar housing in an area with regards to age, condition and location.

This report also demonstrates the current market position of a particular house and the number of comparative houses presently available for sale. The second part of this study reports properties that are currently under contract and have not yet closed. "Pending" properties indicate the area of pricing that has been active and, depending on the type of report, can indicate the actual day the property went under contract.

This can be an important facet of discovering the cycle of a particular price range and where the level of activity has been for a 30 to 45 day period prior to your study.

The sold section of this analysis shows specifically the address of the property, the date of its closing, in some cases the amount of days it was offered on the market before getting a contract, and often the list price. This statistic indicates the percentage between the listed price and the final selling price as recorded.

By reviewing this report, a seller can easily understand the reality of his or her own marketplace.

The fee appraisal is done by an appraiser that is a member of an appraisal organization that is recognized by the Appraisal Foundation and is done for a cost to the buyer or seller. A fee appraisal will often include a replacement approach to value. The appraiser takes apart the components of the real estate and works the cost of the land, the square footage of the home, to arrive at a replacement cost value. An appraiser can render an opinion of value, by incorporating the comparative market approach, similar to the CMA done by the realtor, and depending on the form used, can incorporate the replacement cost to arrive at market value. This is often a very valuable tool when trying to determine a value range of a property that is unique in some way or has locational, conditional, or historical factors affecting its value. Lenders most often require appraisals when loaning mortgage money, equity loans or lines of credit.

Another term that often confuses the home seller is the differences between a caravan or sales tour of new inventory and the common "open house" as offered to the public.

A broker tour or caravan allows the sales agents to preview the latest houses newly added to inventory in their local market place. In most areas, the agents have a specific time and day set aside on a weekly basis devoted to checking out the newest competition.

Some tours are limited to the listing office inspecting their own new properties. Others have a list prepared with all scheduled tours in a particular board or association to check out newly acquired inventory of all local offices and agents. This is an invaluable way for agents to preview and become familiar with all levels of inventory and for agents to pool their buyers and houses for quicker sales results.

This broker's open house offers the listing agent the ability to get immediate feedback as to condition and pricing early in the marketing phase. If suggestions are made to improve or change condition, the agent now has pooled the insight of all these professionals and can inform the seller of this commentary to make changes or improvements to affect a quick marketing period.

The public open house is generally held on weekends to attract buyers for a particular neighborhood. It can be advertised as open to the public through the newspaper or fliers to encourage would-be customers to check it out for themselves.

Open house signs and flags indicate to the general public that they are invited without an appointment to tour a home they may be interested in. This provides the sales agent with a list of people who have shown an interest in this neighborhood area. There is no way to prequalify the See MURPHY on page C5

This thing called 'Dollar-cost-averaging'

"Buy low and sell high" is perhaps the best-known adage about investing in the stock market. There is just one slight hitch to this brilliant advice: It is almost impossible to follow.

Certain individuals have made a short-lived splash by an occasional accurate call. No one, however, has been able to predict the stock market's ups and downs consistently over a sustained period of time. Yet the long term—not a quick in and out—is the only way to invest in the stock market if you truly want to work toward building wealth. Nothing else works.

If it is not possible to predict the stock market's movements for any length of time, should we give up on it? Of course not. Instead, we can beat the stock market at its own game by using dollar-cost-averaging.

Dollar-cost-averaging is the systematic investment of a specific sum of money over specified time periods. Here is a simple example of how dollar-cost-averaging works. Note that dollar-cost-averaging actually is more effective when the stock market is volatile (when prices are swinging sharply up or down).

One share of Mutual Fund 'A' cost $12 in January. Its price rises fairly consistently throughout the year to $17.50 by December. During that year, a monthly investment of $100 acquired 82 shares of Mutual Fund 'A' that are now worth $1,435—a return of nearly 20 percent.

The share prices of Mutual Fund 'B,' on the other hand, performed erratically. They started out at $10 in January, but dipped as low as $2 at one point before returning to about $10 at the end of the year. Even so, the same $1,200 investment—$100 per month—in Mutual Fund 'B' is worth $2,230 at the end of the year—a return of nearly 86 percent, and it acquired 223 shares instead of just 82.

Dollar-cost-averaging can offer real advantages to investors whose goal is to accumulate wealth over a time horizon of at least five years. It promotes the habit of investing by providing a framework to support the discipline of consistent investing which so many people lack or find difficult. Consistent, regular investing can be a good way for most middle-income people to accumulate significant amounts of money over the years.

There is another advantage of dollar-cost-averaging. It works very well with mutual funds, which provide small investors with diversification and professional money management. However, it is somewhat cumbersome to use with individual stocks since these types of stocks do not provide the small investor with the advantage of the diversification inherent in mutual funds.

It should be noted that Dollar-cost-averaging does not assure a profit and does not protect against loss in declining markets. Such a plan involves continuous investment in securities regardless of fluctuating price levels of such securities. Investors should also consider their financial ability to continue their purchases through periods of low price levels.

In a future column, we will review how to get the most out of dollar-cost-averaging and what to be aware of when using this method to start an investment program.

All material presented is general in nature and should not be acted upon without professional assistance. If you would like our help in applying the general information to your specific situation, you may call Greg Seldler at (708) 680-0095.

The agent really benefits from the open house. Since there is no way to prequalify the traffic until after they've inspected a home, the agent can now generate a new list of prospects by matching them to similar properties that better suit their needs and purchase power.

The real value is established when a seller and a buyer agree on a mutually acceptable price for a particular property. Supply, demand, interest rates and neighbor opinions may affect the negotiations, but the value is established when an exchange of money is offered and accepted by buyer and seller.

Loomcraft celebrates grand opening

This fund will benefit from all sellers and buyers referrals made directly to Matthews through a Montini supporter for real estate transactions in which Matthews has participated and whose property has closed.

Results-oriented, Matthews averages 21 days from listing to sales contract and has helped buyers buy and sellers sell $24 million in residential real estate in five northwest suburban counties with individual sales transactions from $29,000 to $477,500. Lock up a rising rate with a CD that won't lock you in.

A guaranteed rate increase with a no-penalty withdrawal option every six months.

Whichever way interest rates might go, the Rising Rate CD is a smart bet. Because if interest rates remain flat or drop, you'll still get a guaranteed raise in your CD rate every six months. But if interest rates begin to climb, the Rising Rate CD gives you the liquidity to pull out once every six months without penalty.

The rate earned for each six-month period rises as the chart above indicates, climbing to a 6.0% APY during the final six-month period.* You have the option of withdrawing all of your funds within the first ten days of any six-month interval. Or you can take out any portion of it as long as a $1,000 balance is maintained.

The Rising Rate CD. The liquidity you want, the guaranteed interest growth you need. To open yours for as little as $1,000, call or visit any participating bank office.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: Please help me out with a problem I am faced with. I am a high school graduating senior and in the process of writing a resume and filling out employment applications. I have been asked for references but since I have no work history in my past I am at a loss for what to use as references. Some of these applications are asking for as many as four references. What do you suggest? Thanks for your time. T.G. - Deerfield

A: Dear T.G., It may appear to be a rather difficult task to come up with references if there is no prior work history; however, at this point concentrate on character references. You most likely will find that you have a few choice individuals who will attest to your character being sound. Here is a list of a few:

1. High school Guidance Counselor
 2. Teachers
 3. Clergymen
 4. Friends or family who have known you for many years
- You may remember that you mowed lawns for a specific family who would be willing to give a reference on how responsible or meticulous you are about your work. There may have been a family that you did babysitting for quite some time ago who may be willing to tell an employer how reliable and dependable you were. Whomever it is that you intend to use as a reference, the most important thing to remember is to contact any person that you plan to use. You don't want to have these people caught off guard by having them receive a call asking about someone they may not remember at that instance. How do you go about contacting them to ask for this? You may want to contact your high school Guidance Counselor by telephone and ask if he/she would help you by writing a letter of recommendation for you to use with potential employers. Offer to come by and pick it up to expedite the situation. Contact teachers in the same respect. If unable to reach them during the summer months due to school being out of session, contact your administrative office. Most often, they know where to get in touch over the summer months and perhaps they would leave your telephone number for the teachers to call you back. Contacting clergy speaks for itself, and friends of the family... well, if you contact them by telephone or go to visit, all you have to do is ask! While I am in the market for employment, would you at all mind if I were to use you as a character reference? That way... no surprises! Good luck to you!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 5101 Washington St., Gurnee, IL 60031.

Libertyville angler hooks tournament winner in Florida

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

When angler Dave Miller of Libertyville joined a friend on a fishing excursion in the Florida Keys, little did he know he was going to walk off the charter with the biggest fish and winner of a tournament.

Sort of on whim, he and his buddy from Elmhurst, Al Wittersheim, entered "Snapper's Fourth Annual Wahoo Tournament" in Islamorada, Fla., while they were on what Miller called a "four-day fishing extravaganza."

Wittersheim owns a charter, "Challenger," and sponsors fishing trips for friends as much as possible, Miller said.

Islamorada claims to be the fishing capital of world. Miller said he didn't know how valid that claim may be, but now he is willing to admit that the small resort town "is certainly the fishing capital of the Keys."

The annual tournament, oddly enough, raises money for the local Little League. More than 25 charters and 50 anglers entered the tournament.

The day before the tournament, Miller landed three large Wahoo, so he and Wittersheim figured they would try their luck in the tournament.

They paid the $50 registration fee and set sail April 23. According to Miller, the eight-hour contest was from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. At 3:55 p.m., he hooked the Wahoo.

After 25 minutes of trying to reel in the lightning-fast fish, which is known to travel between 75 and 80 mph, Miller found out his 27 pounder was the tournament's winner.

"It was kind of a miracle because I caught the fish five minutes before the tournament ended," Miller said.

He also noted that because of the fish's speed and elusiveness, it's a prize just to catch a Wahoo.

"Once they're hooked up, they snap your line and take off," Miller said.

Miller's prize fish earned him a $500 first place prize. His friend, Wittersheim, came in second with a 16-pound Wahoo. Actually, a third crew member would have won the third-place prize if he had paid the registration fee.

After hearing a 350-pound Marlin was recently landed in the same area, Miller said he was looking forward to another fishing "extravaganza" in November.

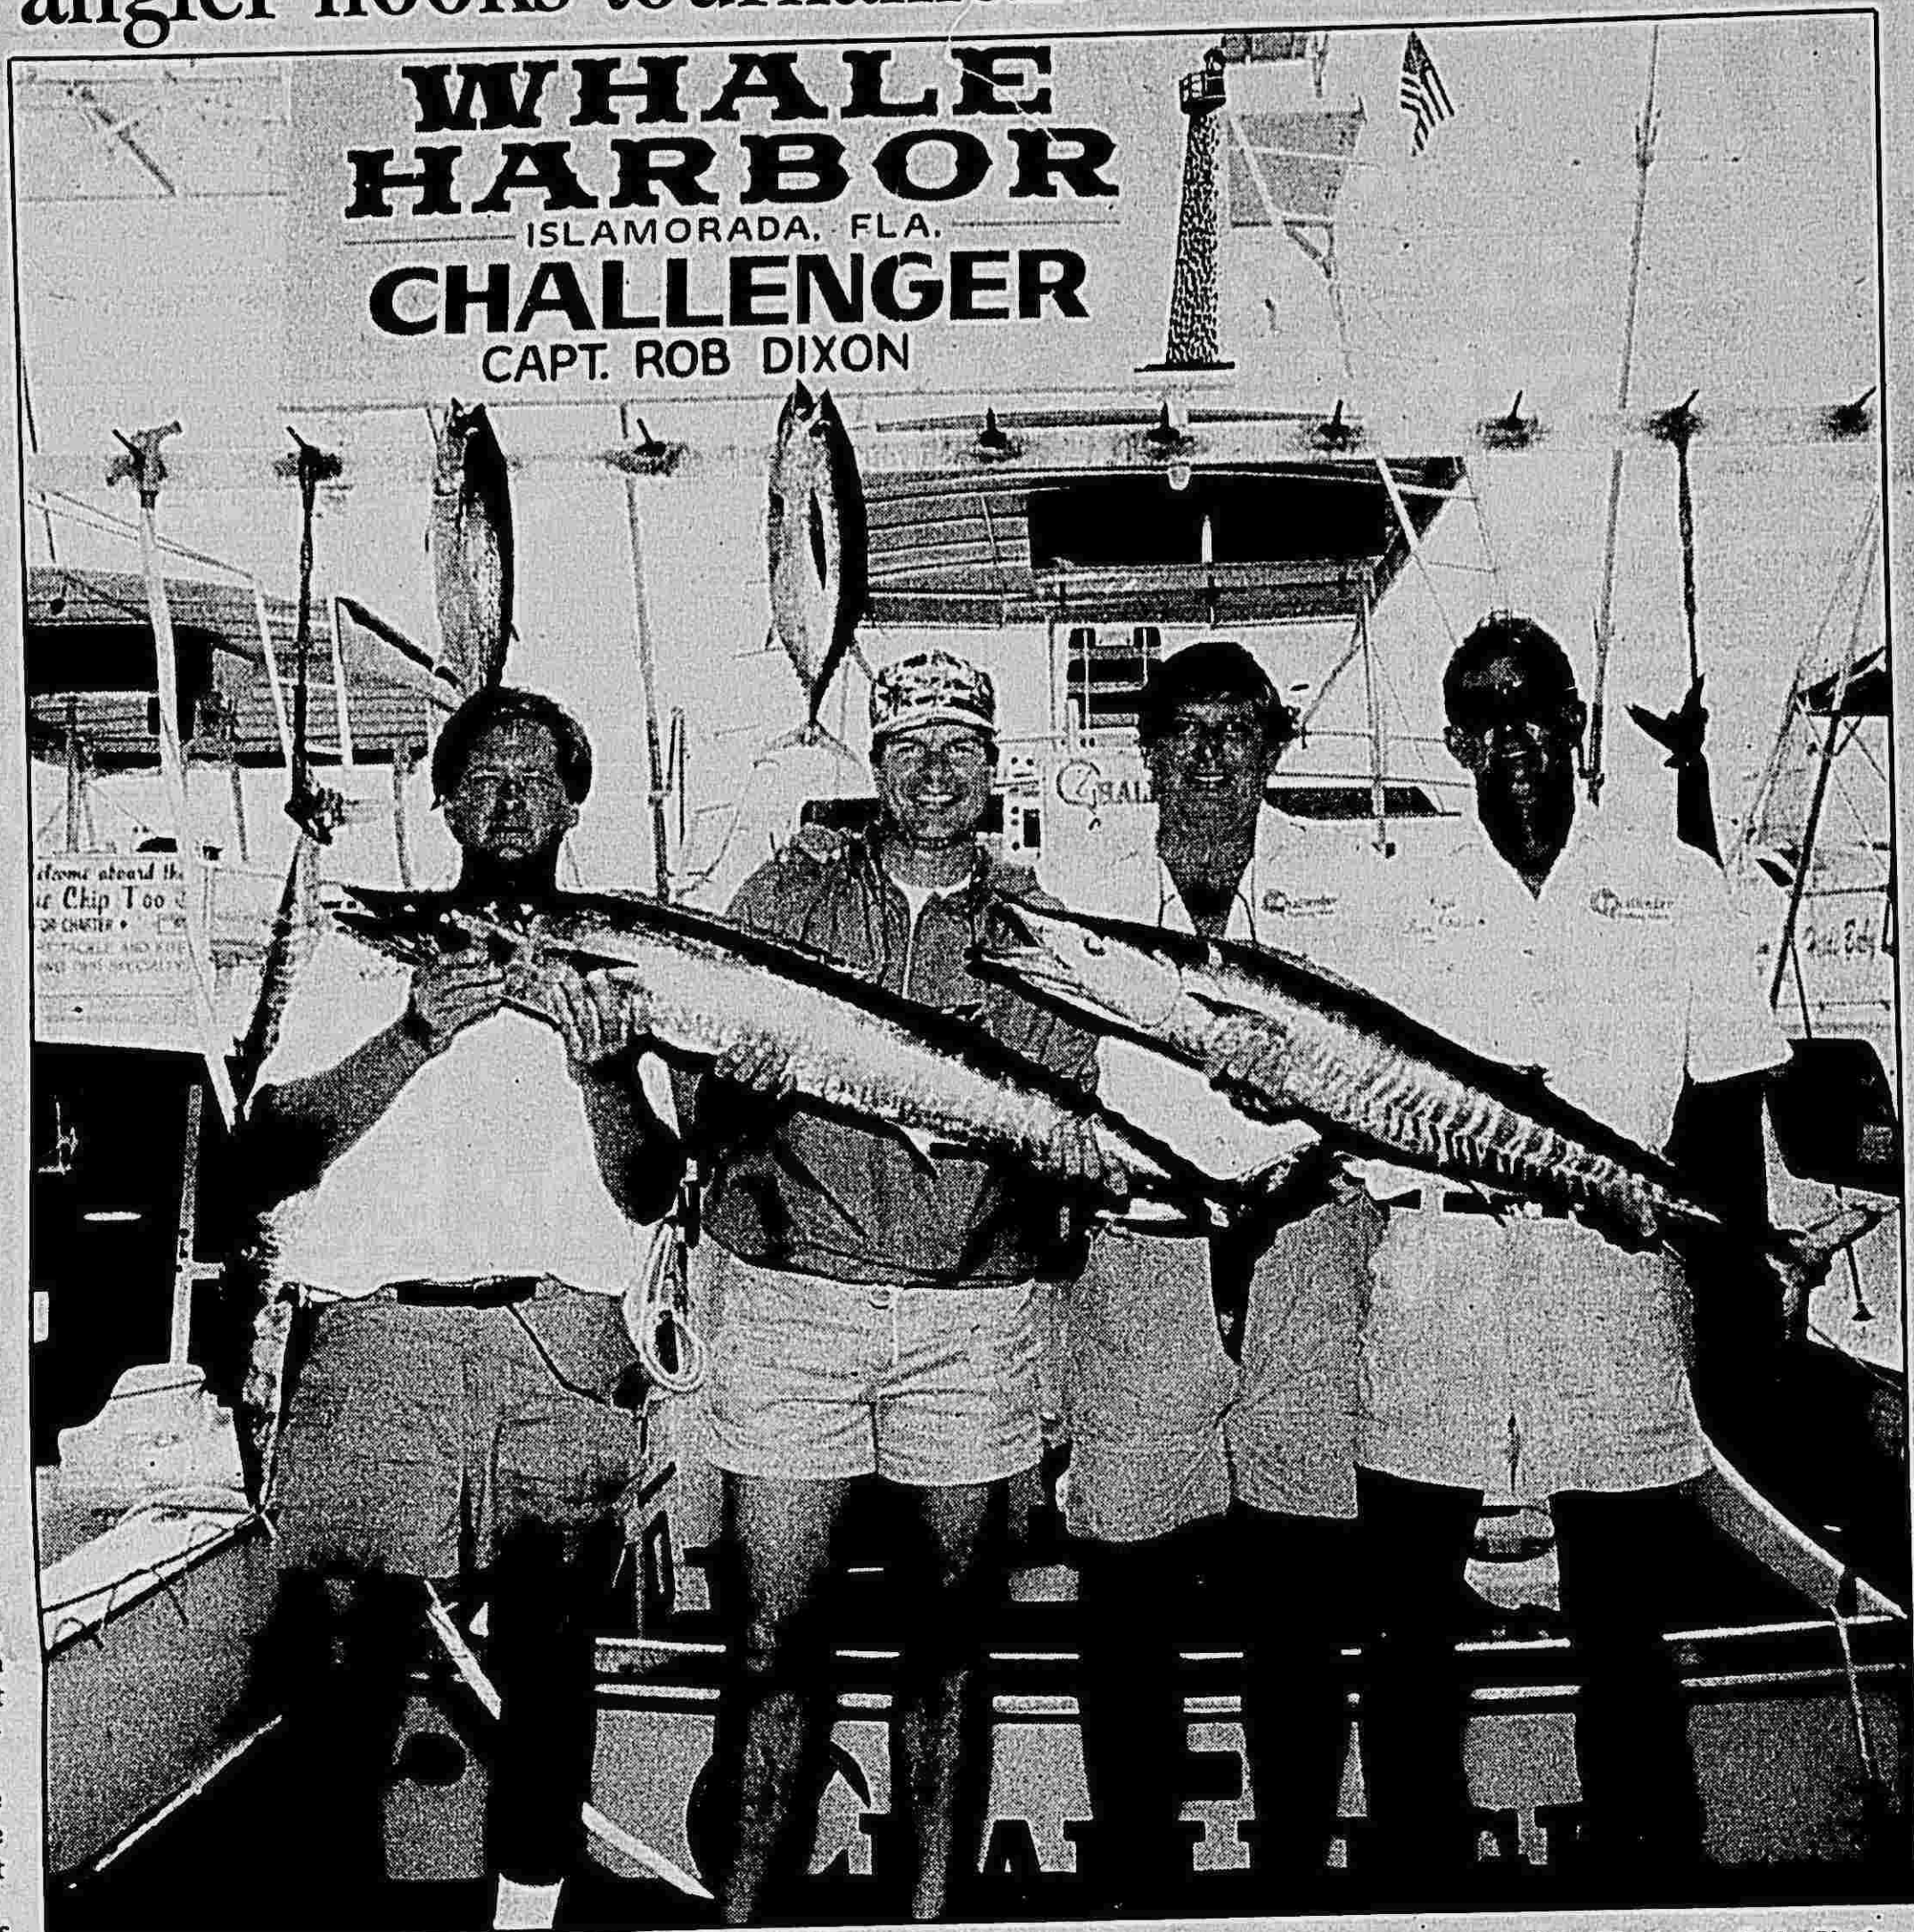

CLC sponsors Cubs, White Sox trips

Baseball fans can cheer for the home teams as the College of Lake County sponsors excursions to see Cubs and White Sox baseball.

The Cubs will take on St. Louis Cardinals June 24. Departure from CLC will be at 12:30 p.m. Tickets are $22 for the general public and $20 for CLC students and alumni.

The White Sox will play the Detroit Tigers July 18. The bus departs at 5 p.m. Tickets are $16 for the general public and $14 for CLC students and alumni.

For tickets, call 223-6601.

ACEP benefits all coaches, master coaches believe

Three ACEP students have reached Master Coaches level. They are, from left: Ron Christians of Wauconda, Candace Brasile of Woodstock and Craig Fenters of Lindenhurst.

American Coaches Effectiveness Program (ACEP) has its first graduating class of Master Coaches.

Candace Brasile, Ron Christians and Craig Fenters each achieved that honor and were honored at a College of Lake County reception. The program was not a quick one, taking up to three years to complete, but all said the time spent was well worth the effort.

"It is unbelievable how much you thought you knew but find out you did not know," Christians said.

Brasile, who teaches the regular portion of ACEP for high school coaching certification, explained the Masters Coaches covered areas including: sport psychology, teaching sports skills, sports administration, sports rehabilitation, and sports nutrition.

Each had to develop a project for the techniques and tactics course. Brasile, for example, set up a girls basketball program in Woodstock. Christians did a videotape on free-throw shooting. Coaches also have to offer clinics and attend clinics.

"We plan to offer a Level III, but there is not enough people in Level II yet," Brasile said.

"I like the program's philosophy of athletes first, winning second. For me, it is true especially for youth sports," Brasile said. "I have used that in my coaching."

"It does not help you in a given sport, but the overall philosophy you knowledge," Fenters said.

He said it was helpful for him to watch how other coaches reacted to situations.

"All the courses were good, but the course I got the most out of was sports philosophy," Fenters, who is a mentor for an under 13 traveling girls soccer team, said.

"You can't rely on your own experience," he said. "Not only do you have to plan a practice well, but you have to make it fun, too."

Soon, those fund-raising endeavors which highlighted the team's outing will be replaced by bone-crunching blocks and wide receivers breaking into the open football field.

Enthusiasm is running high for the three-year-old team, under the direction of new head coach Al Clark.

"The turnout at the mini-camp was not what we had hoped for, but we had 24 good, quality players," Clark said. "We are looking for offensive linemen and a quarterback."

Clark vows the Knights "will be much more organized. There will the-scenes help as well, still has his desire to succeed in semi-pro football.

Clark is looking for a home field to play Chicagoland Football League games. Those willing to allow the Knights to use their facility may call Clark at 336-0699.

He said fans who come out to see Knights games will be surprised.

Clark expects to carry a roster of 55 players. The season opener is Aug. 20 against the Chicago Chargers.

Athletes selected to Team USA in Goodwill Games

Six Lake County athletes have been selected to participate at the Goodwill Games in St. Petersburg, Russia, this summer.

The athletes include: Scott Gehrke, 9, of Antioch; Kenny Schlobohm, 10, of Round Lake Beach; Becky Bush, 12, of Libertyville; Eric Brown, 13, of Antioch; Theo Plaines, 21, of Waukegan; and Dean Lassiter, 27, a national champion of the USA Karate Federation.

Each was named to represent Team USA in the karate competition if the funds are made available to enable them to travel to Russia from Aug. 2-9.

Team USA will be directed by Dr. John Townsley, owner/chief instructor at the USA Karate Club in Libertyville, and president of the Great Lakes Regional Sports Organization, and Roger Greene of Tulsa, Okla.

Fund-raising efforts are currently underway to help defray the cost for the team to travel to Russia. For more information, call 362-7872.

Olson, Smith win accolades for outstanding seasons

Two College of Lake County athletes who took their respective sports by storm in their first year were honored at the school's spring sports banquet.

Bob Olson, an outfielder for the baseball squad and Beth Smith, a pitcher, won the athletes of the season accolades.

"I am surprised by the award. I hope I can do as well next year and not get a sophomore jinx," Olson, a Warren Township High School graduate, said.

Prior to a season-ending loss to Lincoln Land in the district championship game.

Olson set many a CLC (38-21) record. The Skyway Conference all-league pick had 90 hits and four times he had 5-for-5 games. He hit .410.

"He had an incredible year for a freshman," Coach Gene Hanson said.

Olson, a football standout as well at Warren, said reaching one game before the junior college World Series in Millington, Tenn., was a "wonderful feeling."

Olson was one of 7 Lancers named all-conference. Also named were: first baseman Kurt Bruksch; third baseman Heath Cummings; pitcher Derek Hart; shortstop Curt Salata and pitcher Dan Torresin.

"I'm shocked," Smith said of her award. "I'm looking forward to improving for next season."

Smith was the top pitcher on her Carmel High team but found a much different atmosphere at CLC.

"I pitched a lot more because of the doubleheaders," she said.

She credited the defense behind her with helping achieve 25 wins. The highlight was a perfect game against Illinois Valley, she commented.

Coaches Hanson and softball mentor Sue Garcia and tennis coach Lance Lavery noted the athletes accomplishments. The Lancers, for the 15th time in 18 years, won the All-Skyway Conference All-Sports trophy. CLC topped Waubesa by 7.5 points.

"This is the oldest team we have had in 15 years, with the average age of 27," Lavery said. "Everyone contributed to the success."

CLC was second in the Skyway Conference with a 3-1 record, 3-4 overall. CLC was seventh in Region IV.

Morgan Battley was named Most Improved. Terry Sharp was named team captain. Sharp placed third in the regional tournament.

"We're basically a freshmen team and I thought this would be a building year," Hanson said.

After a 4-9 Florida trip, the Lancers finished 7-3 in the Skyway, finishing in second to Oakton.

"We learned how to win," Hanson said. "The freshmen know what the word intensity means."

Earning all-region honors were: MVP Olson, Bruksch and Cummings on the first team. Torresin was named to the second team. Cummings, Torresin and Bruksch's season is not over, as he will play in an all-star game May 28 at Kane County Sports Events Center in Geneva.

"The talent was there, but we needed to put it together," Garcia said.

Following a 1-9 start in Arizona, the Lancers did just that, tying the best record in history at 33-17. CLC was fourth in the state.

"We have 11 freshmen back, so we should be in good shape," Garcia said.

Smith was named Skyway Conference and team MVP. Named all-conference were: Kelly Damron, April Kilman, Amy Drinan and Terilyn Starkey. Erin Kline was named most improved.

Damron, who bested a personal goal when she hit .408, was named offensive player of the year. She had 5 home runs and 19 sacrifices. Kilman was named defensive player of the year.

Boxing helps trackster Titus build career hopes

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

When Lisa Titus returns to her rural Grayslake home following another hard day at school, she is not one to turn on the old T.V.

Or even work on her hurdling skills in the backyard.

Instead, Titus may be tempted to don some boxing gloves and crawl through the ropes into the ring.

That's right, boxing.

"I also train at the College of Lake County," Titus said.

Titus was a key ingredient in the Rams Northwest Suburban Conference track and field title. A senior, she ran a relay and the hurdles, challenging teammate Sarah Thorson in the latter. Titus was cheering her teammates on to a respectable eighth-place finish at the Stevenson girls track sectional Friday.

"I want to go to the FBI," she said.

Her trainer is Gordon Gandy, a former policeman who taught her in a self-defense class at Grayslake Community Park District.

"He says to wait and see about competitive boxing. It depends on how hard I want it," Titus said.

"She has extremely good coordination and easily thinks about tactics," Gandy said.

Gandy said Titus has "unusual knowledge of how a body moves."

He knows that he has to be on his toes when in the ring with Titus.

"She has knocked me down if I get lackadaisical," he said.

Gandy, who tells Titus police stories from his former career, said the skills learned in boxing and martial arts will be useful.

"Self defense is an important tool in law enforcement. You not only have to protect yourself, but others and not use unnecessary force on a suspect," Gandy said.

He said track and field and self-defense are complimentary skills.

"She is very athletic. In hurdles, you have a series of hurdles to go over. In boxing, if you plan for just one punch and the other guy blocks it, you are dead in the water," he said.

Gandy has taught four females in Chicago the art of boxing. While females may now compete in the Chicago Golden Gloves, Gandy cautions about a career.

"Boxers are like machines. Now matter how much the other boxer may give out, the other takes it. It can lead to great damage. Look at Mohammed Ali," Gandy said.

Titus also has another skill she is developing to assist her future career endeavors. She is working on her fencing techniques.
